Wounded Bank Teller's Condition Little Changed

Assailant Of Melnyk Held In County Jail

Charges Are Made By Police Chief Against Kozamczak

BANK TELLER IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Police Investigation Shows That Shooting Was Deliberately Planned

Joseph Melnyk, teller of the People's Savings & Trust company, shot twice in the back at noon Thursday, lies in the Jameson Memorial hospital today in a critical condition, paralyzed from the waist down as a result of injuries to his spine from the bullets fired into him by Harry Kozamczak of Bessemer, while his assailant is now in the county jail, charged with felonious assault and battery with intent to kill, before Alderman William E. Marshall, by Chief of Police John F. Haven.

Kozamczak will be held on that charge pending the outcome of the wounds inflicted on Melnyk. Should Melnyk die as a result of the injuries sustained, a more serious charge will be made against Kozamczak.

The two bullets that struck down Melnyk entered his back just a little above the waistline and about two inches apart. They damaged the spine as they entered the body and one lodged in the lung. The injury to the spine caused paralysis of Melnyk's body below the point the bullets entered the body. While his pulse and general condition were reported improved by the attending physician this morning, his chances of recovery are considered somewhat doubtful.

Records Are On File.

Melnyk was unaware of who shot him down until informed late yes-

When asked the way to Cleveland, a North street man didn't even hesitate yesterday before replying to the motorist—"Over to first stop light, turn right, go up two blocks and trun left. Follow Route No. 422 right into Cleveland." That is what we call giving clear directions, and in few words.

Anticipating the needs of a vast number the coming winter the Needle Work Guild members are putting forth a special effort this summer to have more than the usual number of new garments for the ingathering in November. Mrs. W. E. Ferver, president of the local guild, reminds the members that this year's ingathering will be a memorial to Mrs. John Wood Stewart, founder of this work of supplying the needy with new garments.

The residents near the corner of Boyles and Logan avenue were pleased this morning to see a corps of men cutting down the high weeds which had made that corner unsightly for the most of the summer.

Pa Newc noted a car parked on Mercer street yesterday that was a long way from the home state. The car carried a license tag, "Ark. 32" "No. 65,590," evidently being a machine from Arkansas.

Pa Newc doesn't know whether this is Indian summer, or regular summer, but it is agreeably warm again ,after the cold spell.

Chaplin Vetoes Career For Sons

If Charlie Chaplin, filmdom's most noted comedian, can help it, his sons, Earl, five, and Charles Spencer, six, both above, will not go on with their present movie career. Chaplin's attorneys announced that he would institute proceedings in Los Angeles to prevent his former wife, Lita Grey Chaplin, below, left from fulfilling a contract to appear with the boys in a picture. A clause in the Chaplin divorce agreement is alleged to prohibit Mrs. Chaplin from such action without consent of the comedian.

Make Funeral Plans For Mrs. McCormick

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, "first lady" of Chicago and daughter of John D. Rockefeller, will be buried here tomorrow, it was announced today.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—Pale yellow roses, flowers beloved by Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, languished in a forsaken room at the Drake hotel today, their fragrance wasted. There was none to look upon their beauty, none to smell their fragrance.

The daughter of John D. Rockefeller was no longer there. Her mortal remains lay in an undertaking parlor just a few blocks away.

Deserted were the yellow roses which for nearly a month had tenderly lent their solace to the dying empress of Chicago society. Now the struggle was ended. At last Mrs. McCormick's fierce will to live yielded to the inexorable demands of an uncurable illness.

Today they were planning to bury her, while a cluster of her nearest relatives comforted each other in their grief. Chicago and the world joined in sending condolences to the bereaved family.

Some of Mrs. McCormick's friends believed it likely that she might be laid at rest beside the grave of a son John Rockefeller McCormick, who

Hopi Indians Do Snake Dance And Rain Pours Down

At Conclusion Of Strange Indian Ceremonial Rain Falls In Torrents In Arizona

(International News Service)

HOTEVILLA, near Winslow, Ariz., Aug. 26.—The one-time fierce Hopi Indian tribe was at peace today with the storm gods.

The Indians in strange ceremonials, danced with snakes held in their teeth, and prayed for rain.

As the dance was finished thunder clouds came, and rain fell, and the Indians were pleased.

Highway commissioners thought the Indians were a little too enthusiastic, however, as the rain washed out a bridge and damaged several highways.

Hundreds of visitors viewed parts of the age-old rites.

Poison of the snake bites was counteracted by a secret formula of the Hopi tribe.

WILL ROGERS says:

(Special To The News)

BISHOP, Cal., Aug. 26.—Ten years ago this was a wonderful valley with one-quarter of a million acres of fruit and alfalfa, but Los Angeles had to have more water for the Chamber of Commerce to drink more toasts to its growth; more water to dilute its orange juice; to water its geraniums for the tourists, while the giant cottonwoods here died.

So now this is a valley of desolation. But wherever you find privation and oppressed people, you find Democrats always bucking the giant octopus.

Last night the local Democrats held a rally; everybody in town, including the lone Republican (who of course is postmaster), attended. He agreed to change his politics in return for his present office. It was unanimously passed. All adjourned. The politics is settled here for the next four years.

Oslo Populace Awaits Arrival Of Ocean Fliers

No Anxiety As Yet For Pair Believed Enroute To Norway

UNREPORTED SINCE LEAVING ON HOP

Due In Oslo During Afternoon, If Flight Is Successful

By ARNE KILDAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

OSLO, Aug. 26.—Hopeful of welcoming the first trans-Atlantic fliers to choose Oslo as their destination, large crowds gathered at the Kjeller military airport today to greet Clyde A. Lee and John Bochkon, who took off from Harbor Grace yesterday in the monoplane Green Mountain Boy.

At 3:30 p. m. (10:30 a. m. E. D. T.), no word had been received of the fliers since they flashed out over the ocean at 6:06 a. m. E. D. T. yesterday. Unless some accident befell them, it was assumed that by this time they must have spanned the Atlantic and cross over the British Isles without being sighted.

No Apprehension

No apprehension was felt despite the lack of news. The commander of the field said the fliers were not expected at Oslo before 8 p. m. (3 p. m. E. D. T.), and it was thought possible they might have taken a route which would carry them considerably north of the regular British flying lanes.

Lee and Bochkon carried enough fuel for 37 hours of flight, and hoped to reach Oslo in 30 hours. Norwegian authorities douted they could make the long flight in this time, due to the possibility of strong headwinds in mid-Atlantic and off the Norwegian coast.

Heavy Fire Loss When Barn Burns On Elder Farm

Blaze At Wilmington Junction Causes $8,000 Loss Early This Morning

MOST OF LIVE STOCK IS SAVED

Crops Are Entire Loss—Spontaneous Combustion As Cause

Spontaneous combustion is thought to have been the cause of a disastrous fire which completely destroyed the barn and two sheds on the farm of James R. Elder, on the New Castle-Mercer Road, at New Wilmington Junction early this morning. Seven hogs and six veal calves were burned to death and 600 bushels of oats, 250 bushels of wheat, 200 bushels of rye and 50 tons of wheat were destroyed. as were many tons of straw. Threshing had just been completed of the seasons crop. The loss is estimated by Mr. Elder at approximately $8,000 based on present prices, partly covered by insurance.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Elder about midnight. Mr. Elder rushed into the barn yard and by the time he arrived neighbors were also arriving. The New Wilmington Fire Department answered a call for aid but an insufficient supply of water on the farm made it impossible to save the barn.

Other Buildings Saved

Handicapped as they were by the lack of water, the New Wilmington Fire Department performed valiant service in saving the house and other buildings and sheds on the property. Had it not been for their work the loss might have included every standing building on the place. The horsess, mules and cattle were saved but the flames in the portion where the hogs and calves were made it impossible to save them.

The barn was a large one, being 70x40 feet in size, while the straw sheds were 32x36 and 36x16 respectively. They were completely destroyed.

Not only is the loss a large financial one but it comes just when the annual harvest had been completed and the crops were in. In addition there is little time left for new buildings to be erected before cold weather sets in.

Mr. Elder is a brother of County Commissioner P. O. Elder and a brother-in-law of Judge James A. Chambers.

Rotarians Are Richards' Guests

Corn Roast Is Held On Spacious Grounds Surrounding Water Works

MANY FEATURES MARK PROGRAM

Rotarians, Rotary-Anns and future Rotarians were guests of Howard B. Richards, superintendent of the City of New Castle Water Company, at a corn roast held at the grounds surrounding the plant along the Shenango river last evening.

It was a most enjoyable occasion, a meal fit for any king being laid out by Mr. Richards and his aids from the company, and after everyone had eaten to the point of satisfaction, and some a little more so, a program of sports and entertainment was entered into.

The most interesting part of the program was a visit of inspection through the plant, where many learned for the first time, the many intricate steps necessary to purify the water and send it coursing thru the mains to the thousands of homes in the city, as near 100 per cent pure as modern science can make it.

The various steps were explained in detail to the guests, the water being traced through the mains at the plant from the river to the acrators and settling basin, through the filters and finally to the reservoirs, with the various steps in between. How the chlorine and various other purifying agents are introduced, was explained so that all who were present know just what they are drinking when they quaff a glass of city water.

Another interesting feature on the program was the guessing contest, in which all were given an oppor-

Sherwood Listed As "Handy Man"

Reveal Russell T. Sherwood, Served Clients In All Walks Of Life And Fame

(International News Service)

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Russell T. Sherwood, mysterious figure in the Seabury inquiry, was portrayed at the Mayor Walker removal hearing before Governor Roosevelt today as sort of a mathematical "Handy Andy" for persons in all walks of life, including senators, actresses, real estate men and prize fighters.

Sherwood was more than a $3,000-a-year accountant, judging from the testimony given by Frank J. McIntyre, formerly associated with the late Senator George Blauvelt who died in 1924 and for whom Sherwood did "part-time accounting". McIntyre said Sherwood was a man of wide affairs, doing financial work for all kinds of people.

The Dolly sisters, Beatrice Lillie, the actress; Mike McTigue, former middleweight champion, and Johnny Dundee, former lightweight titleholder, were among Sherwood's clients, according to McIntyre.

Samuel Seabury charges that Sherwood was Mayor Walkers' financial agent—a charge the mayor denies—and claims that the missing witness deposited in "private Sherwood accounts" close to $1,000,000, including about $700,000 in cash.

Business Leaders Of Nation Hear President's Appeal For Co-operation

HOOVER CITES NEEDS IN BUSINESS WORLD

Says Effort In All Lines Needed To Hasten Return Of Employment

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—An appeal to the business leaders of the nation to co-ordinate private industry in co-operating with governmental agencies for a major offensive against the depression was made today by President Hoover in his address opening the industrial conference here.

Speaking from the stage of the spacious auditorium in the new Commerce Department building, the President told a large gathering of the country's leading business men that the American battle of "Chateau Thierry" had been won, "but I warn you the war is not over, we must now reform our forces for the battle of Soissons."

Further Needs

"We need a better distribution of credit," the President declared. "Credit is available but in many sections it is flowing inadequately in directions which would stimulate consumption of goods and employment. It needs resolution to use our banking and governmental resources, and coordination to make them effective.

"In the furtherance of business recovery it is clearly necessary that there be coordination of effort in

PINCHOT MAKES DEMAND DAVIS WITHDRAW

Governor Hits At U. S. Senator

Says Candidate Is Under Suspicion And Should Get Out Of Race

SENDS LETTER TO STATE COMMITTEE

By SYDUEY H. EIGES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Aug. 26.—On the doorstep of the Republican State committee today lay the demand of Gov. Gifford Pinchot that Senator James J. Davis be forced to withdraw as Republican nominee for re-election from Pennsylvania.

Citing Davis' recent indictment by a New York federal jury, the governor denounced him as a "lottery racketeer."

If the Republican state committee is unable to obtain Senator Davis' withdrawal, Governor Pinchot advised it to pre-empt a ticket and "run a clean Republican against him".

Senator Davis has expressed confidence that the jury's accusations of his connection with an alleged lottery conducted by the Moose Lodge for its home at Mooseheart would eventually "prove false."

Davis Under Suspicion.

In his letter to Gen. Edward Martin, chairman of the state committee, the governor asserted "Davis had been under suspicion" since he first became a candidate for the senate. He said the state's junior senator was "accused and widely suspected of having profited from certain questionable stock transactions."

If the senator remains on the ticket and is elected, the senate will 'refuse to seat him, the governor prophesied, recalling his successful fight against William S. Vare, Philadelphia political leader who was rejected by the upper legislative branch.

The governor intimated that he would issue another "certificate of doubt" such as Vare received to Senator Davis if he is re-elected.

The governor asserted Senator Davis has been suspected of "receiving favors from industrial concerns in return for his support on tariff questions which were of vital interest to them."

Discounting the fact that Senator Davis has been indicted but may be found innocent of the lottery charges, Governor Pinchot declared the Republican party "cannot afford to run a candidate who is under suspicion."

Hand Over To Democrats?

"If Davis should be convicted, his conviction would leave Pennsylvania Republicans with no one of their party to vote for, and would be equivalent to handing the Pennsylvania senatorship over to the Democrats." Lawrence H. Rupp, of Allentown, is the Democratic nominee for the senatorship.

"If Davis continues on the ticket one of three things can happen:

"1. Defeat of Davis by the Democrats, carrying many other candidates with him to defeat.

"2. Election of Davis before or after his conviction, and the consequent loss of honor and prestige which will come to the state by having him as one of its senators.

"3. Refusal of the United States senate to accept Davis as a senator."

The governor told Gen. Martin in conclusion that he did not believe Senator Davis would have "the prudence to do what Ainey did." The executive was referring to the resignation of W. D. B. Ainey, chairman of the public service commission, who withdrew rather than fight a blast of charges from the governor.

Governor Pinchot's statement was issued shortly after General Martin left for a motor trip in Canada. Attaches at his office said they did not know where to reach him immediately.

Davis Refuses To Talk.

Cleveland, Aug. 26—Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania has "nothing to say" in regard to the action of Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, demanding that the state Republican committee request Davis to resign as a candidate for re-election because of the lottery indictment against him.

After evading reporters last night when Pinchot's charges against the senator were revealed, Davis barricaded himself in his hotel room here today and refused to see newspapermen.

Davis, who is attending the Moose convention here, sent the following message through his secretary to International News Service:

"I have nothing to say about Pinchot's charges. I am in conference and can't be bothered."

Amelia Earhart Putnam Fails To Become Excited

First Woman To Solo Across Country Non-Stop Thinks Lightly Of Achievement

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Amelia Earhart never thought of thrills or perils, or even the glory of her achievement, while she sped eastward to engrave her name upon a new page of aviation history, as the first woman to complete a non-stop solo flight across the continent.

When she wasn't occupied with the mechanics of flying, America's premier aviatrix took time to enjoy the breath-taking beauty of the changing landscape, she said today, resting at her home in Rye, N. Y., after the strenuous ordeal of her epochal journey.

"I didn't set out to beat Capt. Hawks' record," she explained. "I merely wanted to show that a woman could fly across the continent without stopping. I wanted to keep the ball rolling. If I succeed in persuading other women fliers to follow the trail I shall be satisfied."

HOOVER DECLARES MAJOR FINANCIAL CRISIS OVERCOME

hastening the return of unemployed to employment in their natural industries. It is doubtful whether any actior we could take at this time would so greatly accelerate our progress, serve the welfare of our unemployed millions, or so quickly give us as a nation the benefit of widespread spending power as further spread of equitable plans of sharing the available work.

Major Crisis Overcome

"The reason for calling this conference at this particular moment is that we are convinced that we have overcome the major financial crisis—a crisis in severity unparalleled in the history of the world—and that with its relaxation confidence and hope have reappeared in the world. We are now able to take further steps in solution of the industrial and agricultural problems with which we are still confronted."

The President emphasized the fact that this conference has no governmental authority but that it is purely a voluntary gathering of private enterprise to cooperate in the work which the administration has begun in its reconstruction program.

"In other words, this is a meeting not to pass resolutions on economic questions, but to give you the opportunity to organize for action," he said. "It is not proposed that you shall have authority from the government but that you should join in stimulation of private initiative in America."

Reviews Progress

The President reviewed the progress of the economic depression. He said that during the early months of last year there were strong evidences of our recovery from the depression. Bank failures dropped 70 per cent from the number recorded in the last quarter of 1930. The holding of currency practically disappeared.

Then, he said, the demoralization in foreign countries, weakened by the greaat war and the peace treaties, loosened a host of new forces of destruction which shook the financial and economic structures of this country. Foreign currency deposits in this country were withdrawn hurriedly. American securities held abroad were dumped on our markets. The necessity of meeting these drains brought pressure on every borrower in America and added to the strain of the financial structure here. Hoarding of currency again became a common practice by many people.

Picture Is Changed

"Today that picture has greatly changed," the President declared. "We can look with assurance upon the cessation of foreign withdrawals from our country simply because they have substantially removed their holdings and we have sucessfully accommodated ourselves to it. Our strength has proved equal to the shock although with many casualties. Confidence is returning. A return flow of gold from abroad has begun. Europeans are again investing in our markets.

"With the large prevention of bank failures and with relief from foreign pressure and its constantly renewed fears, the domestic hoarding of currency has ceased and is now returning at the rate of nearly $20,000,000 a week. The demands for banking assistance from the Reconstruction Corporation have diminished by $170,000,000 from the previous month. That our financial foundations are unimpaired is indicated by the fact that measures in the amount of their trusts, 98 per cent of our banking and fiduciary obligations to the public are intact. Seventy million insurance policies and 25,000,000 million depositors have been saved from jeopardy."

VON PAPEN NOW FIGHTING HARD TO KEEP OFFICE

opposition parties in the Reichstag have a chance to get together and vote him out of office.

Immediate dissolution of the Reichstag, scheduled to open Tuesday, would mean continuation of government by emergency decree pending new elections.

During this hiatus, with his government secure except for the possibility of an armed "putsch" by the Nazis, Von Papen hopes to convince the German people that their best hope for temporary economic and industrial salvation is to permit him to remain in office.

In line with this argument, Von Papen will ask President Von Hindenburg's approval of a gigantic reconstruction plan, involving state employment of several million jobless men at full pay.

DETROIT MAN AND THUG INVOLVED IN BIG MURDER PLOT

man thrust his head in the window, covered them with a gun and then fired one bullet through Mrs. Wysocki's head.

Wires Are Tapped

For days police believed it the work of a dope-crazed bandit. Then Wysocki's friendship with Miss Marsh was discovered, he was grilled intermittently for weeks. Miss Marsh and his two sons, Alex, Jr., 14, and Edmund, 13, were questioned without success.

Finally released, Wysocki told Navarre: "Well, I hope you solve this murder eventually."

"Oh, I think I will," said the inspector.

Then he assigned four detectives to watch the suspected man.

The detectives, Navarre said, tapped Wysocki's phone, and heard Sams demand more money, for the "job".

Sams, according to Navarre, confessed that Wysocki bought him the gun with which Mrs. Wysocki was killed, and a second-hand car in which to escape.

COUNCIL TO DECIDE MILLS PAY QUESTION

Council will convene within the next few days to decide whether or not Charles S. Mills is to receive compensation for the time he served as a fireman in the city paid firemen's department.

The decision to confer and settle the question followed the appearance of Judge J. Norman Martin before council.

He had prepared a proposed ordinance which if enacted into a city law, it is reported, would result in payment to Mills.

Council desired to peruse the proposed bill. Solicitor Robert White will be present when the conference is held to pass on the measure.

Charles S. Mills worked for a year as a city fireman and during service was injured. He received no pay from the city.

The reason he was not paid was due to the claims he had been named contrary to the civil service law regulations.

His attorney's carried the fight to court but Mills lost out on his appointment.

However, Mills was credited with having been a good fireman, and it has been pointed out that had he not worked, some other person would have and received salary and it is believed by Mills and his counsel, that he should be paid the money held back which is aproximately a year's salary.

IT SAVED HER DAUGHTER

IT IS the daughter herself—Miss Rose Lama—who willingly gives the facts in a letter.

She says, "My mother wanted me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when I was younger. But I wouldn't. If I had, I might have been a well girl now. I suffered terribly every month."

Finally the girls in her office convinced her. She tried it at last. Now she is on the way to greater health and happiness. Mothers—tell your daughters. And daughters—take your mother's advice. Suffering is unnecessary.

TURNING THE TIDE IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION

SECRETARY of Commerce Chapin, in his first formal address since his appointment, has outlined in a comprehensive manner the Hoover program for trade revival.

It might be called the introduction to the conference of industrial and business leaders now starting in the White House. This meeting will decide how best to give battle to the forces of business depression. The fight really began when the President first summoned the business interests of the country to Washington. The coming gathering will decide on "the next steps forward." Already there are signs of a business revival in the air. But the Administration is not willing to wait for this to develop. The purpose is to stimulate and encourage it along every battle-front.

Mr. Chapin says very frankly that much depends upon the people themselves. He feels, as does every thoughtful person, that the power of initiative has not left the American business man. But the government has the power to help, and it has helped. In addition to the driving force of the people he says we now have the added force of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the expansion of credit under the amended Federal Reserve act, and the stimulating effect of the Home Loan Bank. These, he rightly declares, will be most important factors "to turn the tide in the right direction."

The new Secretary of Commerce is in a position to talk with authority because he is an outstanding business man who understands the problems and difficulties with which business has to contend. He is emphatic on one point. "Positive policies at Washington have saved what might have been a desperate situation." And he adds, "I do not term that injecting government into business. It is merely using the nation's resources in their best sense. Already people are benefiting from these extraordinary facilities."

MR. WALKER'S INCONSISTENCIES

It is a trifle difficult for the average citizen to follow the trail of Mayor Walker without stubbing his toes on so many inconsistencies that the whole business begins to look queerer and queerer.

First of all he welcomes the Hofstader committee with ringing declarations to the press that there is nothing to hide in his administration of New York. Next there's nothing that he wants to hide about his own conduct.

Then the star witness, Mayor Walker's former financial secretary, disappears on a "honeymoon" that bids fair to last until his golden wedding. Fines for contempt, appeals, nothing has sufficed to return this elusive gentleman to the jurisdiction of the committee.

Then when Mr. Walker was summoned before the governor he let it be known that he was sure to present so complete a defense that the charges against him would be blown away like autumn leaves.

But when the hearings started he began to object and delay in every possible manner.

Now he has turned to the courts for protection against the "unfairness" of the Governor, an unfairness which so far as most people can see consists in trying to get at the truth through jungles of evasion. And in credit to his labors it must be stated that Mr. Roosevelt has succeeded in bringing out a pretty fair picture of the mayor of New York.

The courts present another opportunity for Mr. Walker and his advisors to squirm and delay the decision.

But ultimately that decision will have to be made.—The Rochester Times-Union.

BEWARE OF THE GAMBLING GAME IN STOCKS

Standard stocks and bonds for the most part have been selling below their values. When the crash came in 1929 they had been boosted far beyond their worth. The gambling craze had seized upon the entire Nation. It led men and women who had always been conservative into the maelstrom which finally whirled them to disaster. Such an orgy of speculation was without parallel. It wasn't just a matter of "suckers" prayed upon by those "in the know." It was a grand rush to get rich quick. There was betting, not on dividend capacity, but on "prospects." Intelligent persons realized that this sort of thing could not go on forever, but even the wisest among them were loath to quit as long as there was an upward turn. All suffered alike—wise men, fools. The gambling spirit prevailed over common sense. And then came the morning after the grand spree.

There is now an upward tendency in the stock market. With pessimism giving way to optimism, with faith in the future of the country, there is realization that many stocks that have been consistent dividend producers are on the bargain table. For many a long month all sorts of bargains could have been picked up as investments. They still can be. The higher prices are an indication of returning confidence.

But there are certain indications that the gambling spirit is still abroad. It should not be necessary to warn those who have been badly bitten once to tread a little lightly—to be careful what they do. There are bargains, yet. On many a standard issue the prices are too low. The customer looking for investments has plenty of opportunity. But he should make his selections with care and be wary of being drawn into a pure gamble with securities that are dubious and that are merely speculative.

Thus far the advance has been healthy, at least to a large extent. Keep it so. A nation that is showing unmistakable sings of recovery—slow, to be sure, but certain—can not afford to be again upset by a craze for sudden wealth.

IF YOU STAND HIGHER.

If you are doing worthwhile things you are misunderstood.

You will hear the report that you have some selfish motives in the good you do for humanity.

If you are making well merited advancement some will say that you have had "pull" or have resorted to some underhanded methods to arrive.

You will not be given credit for serious endeavor and honest purpose.

In addition you must expect that unfavorable phases of your reputation as well as that of your family will be aired and added to the gossip.

If you have anything in your life that you don't want uncovered, don't boost yourself to the place where your head appears above the others.

Each step you take higher than the majority will make your head a target for shafts of the most adverse kind.

It is the penalty for standing out prominently.

There are those so constituted that they are always antagonistic toward those who lift themselves above the multitude.

It matters not whether the criticism be merited or not.

It matters of charity it is the same way and the men and women who are doing good are censured with the favorite variety of criticism —that they are giving what they gained dishonestly.

GIVE ME A GOOD BOOK

When the days of adversity have come.
When even old friends have deserted me.
When the sense of failure is stealing over me.
When every other joy has taken leave.
When all other hearts are closed against me.
When the glory of life has turned to ashes in my hands.
When hearts are breaking, for through it God will speak.

Values Are Real.

We read of a farmer who bought a cow for $20 and allowed an artist to paint her picture. The painting was so successful that the artist sold it for $500. The farmer reasoned that except for the cost of the paint, the canvas and a few days work, the artist had received $500 for nothing. The artist might well have reminded the farmer that the $1.00 worth of seed he planted in the watermelon patch, raised a thousand mellons, and yet the farmer charged 35 cents to 40 cents apiece for them as soon as they were ripe!

The artist gets $500 or $1000 for a single painting because he has spent years studying lights and shadows, colors and technic. All of these things are marketable. And the farmer is required to know how to mix his soil, how to protect his delicate plants against the frost, the insects, and how to keep the ground in good condition.

Each is entitled to the fruits of his labor and study.

Farm Co-Operation Advised; Success Of Strike Is Doubted

Growers Arouse Sympathetic Interest Of Country But Method Is Subject Of Debate As Means Of Maintaining Higher Prices

National interest and discussion have been aroused by the attempt in some of the grain States to raise the prices of their products by means of a strike among the farmers. The question is raised as to whether enough pledges can be obtained to affect the market. Much advice is given in the direction of using the method of restricted production and co-operative marketing as a means of reaching the desired goal.

"If they feel they can get better prices by temporarily holding their products they are entitled to do so," declares the KANSAS CITY TIMES, but holds that "if they resort to force to stop produce from going to market, they put themselves in the wrong, and turn public opinion against them." The DAYTON DAILY NEWS believes that "the Iowa farmers are taking the hardest of all roads to justice for themselves," and that "less effort and organization than the measure of this strike requires would gain, if otherwise employed, more than this strike can hope to gain."

"Opinions may differ about the wisdom of the present strike movement," declares the ROCK ISLAND ARGUS, "but everybody will concede that agriculture stands in need of better prices for its products." The Argus feels that "the strike method might help, conceivably, if it was universal in extent." While holding that "no more than labor strikers have they the right to force others by violence to join them," the MINNEAPOLIS JOURNAL feels that "no one can blame farmers for making this experiment in price lifting, for surely they are under no obligation of any kind to sell what they raise at a loss." It points out, however, that "American farmers are by nature and tradition individualists and do not readily accept such a mass movement as this with effective unanimity."

"The farm holiday is entirely proper," states the SIOUX FALLS ARGUS-LEADER. "There can be no moral or legal objections to it. Farmers have a perfect right to withhold their hogs, wheat, eggs, milk and butter if they feel that the prices being offered to them are too low. Furthermore, they are justified in grasping at any opportunity that promises to terminate the long era of selling their commodities at prices that are below the cost of production. On the other hand, each farmer has a right to decide for himself what he wishes to do. If he feels that he must go to market, he should be allowed to do so."

The MITCHELL GAZETTE holds to the belief that "with the Federal Farm Board already functioning, in a position to act for 3,000,000 farmers who had joined the co-operatives, the success of the Farm Holiday would have been assured, could the movement have functioned through that organization." The Gazette adds that "maybe it will succeed anyway." The UNIONTOWN HERALD recalls that "the most successful farmers' strike movement to force higher prices for their product was that of the burley tobacco growers of the Black Patch region of Kentucky from 1905 to 1908," and that "the success of the tobacco pool in this case has been attributed entirely to the employment of 'night riders.'" In the present instance, the ROCHESTER TIMES-UNION is convinced that "the pledge to withhold from the market does not offer a remedy unless it might be brought about by an organization that could corner the entire crop." The CLEVELAND NEWS suggests that "crops connot be held on farms indefinitely.. and the central authority and unanimous participation needed in successful strikes are lacking." The HOUSTON CHRONICLE holds that "the growth of bona fide co-operatives offers about the only hope of satisfactory conditions for the American farmer." The CHARLESTON (W. VA.) DAILY MAIL concludes that "the movement is in the right direction, but wrong methods are being used," while the PORT HURON TIMES HERALD thinks that "if the farmers can organize for a strike in a time when they feel themselves driven to desperate measures, certainly they can, in calmer mood, organize for the orderly marketing of their products."

"It is understandable," observes the INDIANAPOLIS NEWS, "how the condition has led to a spectacular demonstration of dissatisfaction, but the futility of it should appeal to the judgement of the participants. By refusing to sell their products, especially perishables, they risk more harm to their own cause than to consumers. After the expense of production, no sale leads to no cash return instead of recovery by sale of a part if not more of the production cost. Some varieties of grain and cotton lend themselves to the plan of withholding them from the market, but live stock, at the finished stage, can not be kept long, if additional feed costs are not to eliminate any profit possibility. On a national scale, co-operative projects, with government aid, have found tremendous difficulty in treating with the many factors that must be adjusted to result in a feasible program. Sporadic ventures contain no remedy for the problem."

"The farmer today," advises the WASHINGTON EVENING STAR, "is in far better circumstances than his unfortunate fellow citizen of the city. The farmer has enough to eat.  His 'strike' will chiefly affect those of the cities who are as little responsible for a topsy-turvy economic world as he is, and far less able to deal with its vicissitudes." The SPOKANE SPOKESMAN-REVIEW remarks that "to the extent that they are withholding wheat, dairy products and live stock from the market, the immediate advantages will go to producers who do not hold back their products." The YOUNGSTOWN VINDICATOR offers the judgment that the movement "means a loss to the farmers for the time the agreement is in force, and it strikes at children in the cities who must suffer from whatever reduction in milk supply may result." The BALTIMORE EVENING SUN concludes: "It is the farmers' own scheme and is being put into effect without any help from the outside; it costs nothing; and if it fails it injures no one but the person who promoted it." The Evening Sun refers to the expenditures of the Farm Board, and adds: "The more we hear about this home-grown farm relief, the better we like it."

Pointing to some reported results of picketing, the RUTLAND HERALD charges that "this is unlawful and makes a direct challenge to the officers of law and order." The NEWARK EVENING NEWS states that "there is no cure for low prices in withholding perishable crops from market and, while there are food supplies, forced interruption of their flow cannot be socially justified." The OAKLAND TRIBUNE believes that "in the end, the farmer, like other business men, will probably have to wait the upturn of conditions." Noting that "if the industrial worker goes on strike, production ceases," the HAVERHILL GAZETTE finds things "different on the farm," for "production goes on much as before," and "the striking farmer is up against a profoundly different proposition from the one that faces his brother in the city."

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

RUNNERS MUST TRAIN.

The event of the Tenth Olympaid at Los Angeles brings to mind the fact that the world movement for the revival of the ancient Olympic Games was instituted by Baron Pierre de Coubertin of France, in 1896.

The celebration of the First Olympaid of modern times was awarded to the country where the Olympic Games flourished from 776 B. C. until suppressed by Emperor Theodosius in 394 A. D.

The first inspired Olympic achievement went to the credit of a son of Greece. Spiridion Louys, a shepherd boy, heard the Olympic call. He spent two days in fasting, two nights in prayer before holy pictures, and won the classic marathon race from Marathon to Athens, retracing the steps of Pheodippides who brought the news of Athenian victory centuries before,—and fell dead in the market place.

Thirty miles is not much for the modern athlete. The trouble with Louys was he did not train properly. Fasting and loss of sleep is bad medicine for a runner of any sort.

Stability, Peace Of World Viewed As An Impossibility Without Cooperation Of U. S.

By CARDINAL VERDIER
Archbishop of Paris and Superior General of the Sulpician Order

The future of the world will be determined by the United States, as it will be impossible to obtain stability and peace without the co-operation of this country.

The United States as well as France has advanced spiritually during the economic depression.

Since my last visit to the United States, nine years ago, the people —young men and women, particularly—have grown more serious. They are more moderate in their views. Also, I observed that there is greater co-operation among different elements of the people.

I am amazed at the very democratic spirit manifested in all classes in America. This spirit should be an admirable example to all nations.

France And U. S. Seek Agreement Regarding Trade

France Is Only Willing To Make Short-Term Commercial Treaty With U. S.

ASSURANCES ARE GIVEN FRANCE

International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Aug. 26.—France, declining to accede to the wishes of the United States, is willing to make only a short-term commercial treaty granting most - favored - nation treatment, it developed at renewal of Franco-American negotiations today.

The United States asked a durable treaty, and to obtain it offered a compensatory legislation to protect French styles and copyrights, as well as a more liberal interpretation of the pharmaceutical act to let in more French medicines.

Despite French objections to the American proposals, however, it still was confidently expected an agreement would be reached, in view of the desire of both the French and American governments to create an atmosphere favorable to disarmament and war debt discussions later.

Seriously Injured In Auto Accident

George Hrebik Wants $25,000 From P. J. Grazybowski And John Dando

George Hrebik has filed a suit at the prothonotary's office against P. J. Grazybowski and John Dando, in which he asks $25.000 for injuries sustained in an automobile accident at the intersection of South Mill street and Long avenue.

On May 15 it is claimed that the defendants were going to visit the home of a friend in Oakland. Dando owned a car but went to the friend's house in another car, giving his own car to Grazybowski to drive.

Hrebik claims that he was standing on the northeast corner of Mill street and Long avenue, and started to cross to the northwest corner while the light was green on Long avenue.

There was a street car on Mill street, unloading and taking on passengers. When Hrebik was about the center of the street, Grazybowski, approaching from the west on Long avenue, whirled around the corner and struck him.

When taken to the New Castle hospital, it was found that Hrebik had sustained a fracture of the first lumbar vertebrae, commonly called a broken back. His body has been in a sling ever since the accident, with apparently little hope of recovery.

It would be a Scotchman of course, who would cross the ocean on less fuel than it was ever done before.—The Roanoke Times.

Sheriff's Office Men Do Battle With Policemen

The Municipal golf course would have been a poor place to start a fight or rob a till or pull off some other dastardly act last night, for the simple reason that the city golfing links was well protected.

Of course, not many of the golfers knew this, but there were the following "limbs of the law" out on the fairways testing niblicks and putters: Sheriff Frank Johnston, Deputy Sheriffs Reynolds, Venditto and McBride, and the following policemen: Tommy Jones, Jimmy Steiner, Ray Richards and Ray Showalter. The golfing match ended in a deadlock at 2-2. It will be played off next Tuesday evening.

The policemen need just a little more practice and then The News team will take them on, and the sheriff and his crew will not be barred, either.

Sheriff Johnston defeated Showalter, Russ McBride defeated Jimmy Steiner, Tommy Jones beat Andy Venditto and Ray Richards defeated Bill Reyolds.

Pennsylvania Has Most Foreign-Born Speaking Own Tongue

Over Eight Per Cent Are Unable To Speak English, Census Shows

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent Of The New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 26—Inability to speak English is considerably more prevalent among the foreign-born whites of Pennsylvania than among such residents of the country as a whole, the Census Bureau revealed today.

Of the 1,221,729 foreign-born white residents of the Keystone State when the national 1930 census was taken, 101,051 or 8.3 per cent, were unable to speak the English language. Of the foreign-born whites in the nation as a unit, on the other hand, only 6.6 per cent were without the ability to use English. Of such residents in the Middle Atlantic states, in which Pennsylvania is included, 7.6 per cent were unable to converse in English.

Of the forty-eight states, only three—Florida, Massachusetts and Connecticut—had higher percentages of foreign-born white residents unable to speak English than did the Keystone State.

Ohio reported 8.1 per cent of foreign-born whites without the ability to use the language, and West Virginia listed 7.9 per cent of her foreign-born white residents as falling within this category.

Assumes Post As Dean Of Women

Westminster Graduate Back At School In Official Capacity

MARY E. TURNER

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Aug. 26.—Miss Mary E. Turner, new dean of women at Westminster College, will have her office in Robert Audley Browne hall, freshman women's dormitory. Dean Turner decided to have her office in the new building because of its central location.

Dean Turner, a graduate of Westminster and of Columbia University, is looking forward to welcoming a large freshman class during "orientation week" from September 12 to September 15. Many of the social activities, especially those for the freshman women, are being planned by Dean Turner, and indications are that one of the largest classes in the history of the college will be present for these opening welcome days.

Dean Turner has been at the college all summer getting her office records in shape for the opening of college, laying plans for the activities of the year, meeting with patronesses of the sororities, and getting the office of dean of women organized. She has written mothers of freshman women that her office will be open to visitors and to women students for conference and advice.

Postmasters May Go To Convention

Will Be Excused From Duty, Postmaster General Brown States

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent of The New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 26.—Pennsylvania postmasters who are members of the National Association of Postmasters will be excused from duty long enough to attend the national convention of the association to be held at Springfield, Massachusetts, next month.

Walter F. Brown, Postmaster General, states that postmasters who are members of the association will be granted leave of absence to attend the convention September 14, 15, 16, and 17. The actual time required to attend the convention, including traveling time both ways, will be allowed with pay and not charged against annual leave, but when a postmaster returns to his office, he must promptly report to the inspector in charge of the division in which his office is located, Mr. Brown directs.

Post offices must be left in charge of competent and duly bonded employees, Postmaster General Brown states.

Suit For Damages Of $50,000 Filed

Thomas J. Connors Sues P. And L. E. Railroad Company And Shaw-Perkins Co.

Thomas J. Connors of this city has filed a suit at the prothonotary's office against the Pittsburg and Lake Erie Railroad company and the Shaw-Perkins Manufacturing company of West Pittsburg, in which he asks $50,000 for injuries sustained while shifting cars at the Shaw-Perkins siding in West Pittsburg.

Connors is a freight conductor on the Pittsburg and Lake Erie. He was directed to place some cars on a siding adjoining the Shaw-Perkins plant. Assisting him was William J. Joseph, a brakeman.

A carpenter shop is located across the siding from the main plant of the Shaw-Perkins company. The company had arranged a draw bridge to connect the carpenter shop with the main plant. This bridge was on a level with the floors of the two plants and also about on a level with the floor of a box car.

The drawbridge could be raised or lowered by means of a pulley arrangement. When Connors and Joseph started to place the cars on the siding they found the drawbridge lowered. There were none of the Shaw-Perkins workmen around and the railroad men attempted to raise the drawbridge, so that the freight cars could be pushed past it.

Connors was on the bridge when it was given a lift by Joseph. Connors was thrown into a pit and severely injured about the legs and spine. He claims that his injuries are of a permanent character. Before the accident he was earning $6.43 per day.

As Amelia Set New Record

Surrounded by a throng of admirers, Amelia Earhart Putnam, America's ace aviatrix and first woman to make a solo flight across the Atlantic, is shown on her arrival at Newark, N. J., Airport to complete the first non-stop transcontinental flight ever made by a woman. Mrs. Putnam flew from Los Angeles to the New Jersey city in the elapsed time of 19 hours and 4 minutes, little more than one hour over the time set by Captain Frank Hawks. Inset is a fine closeup of Amelia waving a greeting as her plane rolled to a stop.

Skeleton Is Guest Of Honor At Eerie University Dinner

By A. J. KOBLER, JR.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Aug. 26.—A man who died a century ago was the guest of honor at a dinner given at University college here.

He was Jeremy Bentham, great philosopher and lawyer, who was one of the founders of the college.

He wore the same clothes as he did a century ago, and looked on with tacit approval at the 20 distinguished professors, economists, philosophers and lawyers who toasted him.

The eerie dinner was given to celebrate the hundredth anniversary of his death. In his will he had expressed the hope that his disciples, gathered together to discuss his great work, would have his skeleton in their midst.

For years the skeleton has sat on a chair in a glass case, dressed in his own clothes, with the skull at his feet, and a wax effigy of his face in its proper place.

The distinguished gathering drank to his health, and then proceeded to discuss his great ideas which have become a part of our legal and moral standards.

It was Jeremy Bentham who said, "The greatest happiness for the greatest numbers."

Girls Rap Clubs That 'Muscle In' On Greek Letters

(International News Service)

DENVER, Aug. 26.—Persons who never went to college, but who have been "muscling in" on the Greek alphabet, recently aroused the ire of the young women who make up the membership of Phi Chi Hheta, national university women's commercial sorority.

Greek letters, they declare, are for campus organizations exclusively.

They adopted a resolution, presented by Miss Florence Carlson of Berkeley, Calif., condemning the use of Greek letters to designate non-collegiate organizations.

"The practice of unidentified clubs adopting names similar to those of university organizations is a false pretense to which they have no right," Miss May C. Joyce of Denver, national president of Phi Chi Theta, declared.

"It is of no real benefit to them, and only adds to the confusion of those deserving to designate themselves in the traditional manner of collegiate fraternities and sororities."

Zoologist Makes Wide Study Of Rats

(International News Service)

TUCSON, Ariz., Aug. 26.—Seeking to learn what causes desert rats and mice to change their colors to match the rocks and earth about them, Dr. Lee R. Bice, noted zoologist of the University of Michigan, has come to the Carnegie Institute of Washington near this city.

Regardless of what part of the Southwestern desert is visited, Dr. Bice has discovered that the coats of the rodents are exactly in harmony with the plant and soil life about them. On white sands the rat is white. In the lava fields on mountain sides, creatures of the same species are dark brown. The change aids the little animals to avoid hawks and other predatory birds.

Hundreds of rats, collected from territories far apart, will be examined.

Prince Of Wales Becomes Brewer Just For A Day

(International News Service)

LONDON, Aug. 26.—England's popular Prince of Wales has become a brewer, not just a common or ordinary brewer but a good brewer. He has brewed some of the finest and most delicious beer ever produced in England.

With a clear amber color and a kick like White Mule, this royal beer, known as "Prince's Ale" was made by the Prince of Wales when he visited Messrs. Charrington's Brewery, in the east-end of London, recently.

Classed as one of the strongest beers ever brewed it already has the smoothness characteristic of high-class English ales.

Like thousands of Englishmen, you thirsty Americans in your liquorless land, with watering mouths may well lick your lips, but this royal beer is not for sale.

It will be matured for at least another two years, and then will only be available for privileged consumers.

So high is its gravity that it is estimated that the duty will amount to $65 or $70 a barrel.

Glamorous Paris Becomes City Of Deserted Males

(International News Service)

PARIS, Aug. 26.—"Gay Paree" is now the "City of Deserted Husbands."

Monsieur stays in Paris but Madame and the children have deserted the capital for the country or the seashore for the month of August.

Every night hundreds of lonely men may be seen eating alone in boulevard restaurants, sipping their "cafe" alone on the "terrace," or going to movies alone.

These "deserted" husbands, however, disappear suddenly over Saturday and Sunday when they go to join their families for the week end if the distance is not too great. For that reason week end trains in France are nick-named "Husbands' Trains."

French tradition thoroughly approves this annual exodus. Monsieur gets two months freedom from the conjugal yoke while Madame and the children get a two months vacation.

National Air Races Will Have Ten Days Of Competitive Flying, Ends Labor Day

FASTEST PLANES SEEKING HONORS

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 26.—Aviation's great and near great gathered here today for tomorrow's opening of the national air races, 10 days of competitive flying now becoming the aero classic of the world.

Nearly 200 pilots, men and women, including an international foreign team picked as the best the Old World has to offer, will carry out a program calculated to shove the aerial speed a notch or two higher and present a record of flying of today at its best. Clifford Henderson, manager of the races, reported an advance sale of approximately $75,000 worth of tickets. He predicted the stands would be packed throughout the program, winding up Labor Day with the real thriller of the races, the hundred-mile Thompson speed contest. As a spectacle the 1932 races promised more thrills and color than its predecessors from the fact that the courses have been arranged this year so that contesting planes are visible throughout the entire race. The three-mile closed course has been worked out to give a real hair-raiser in the way of curves. It includes a hundred and eighty degree bank around a pylon right in front of the main grandstand

More than a score of planes were on the field today, their pilots nursing them like new babies, and some of them looked like they would give old speed records a quick grin and an au revoir.

Believes Company Should Pay Damage

Truck Hurls Brick Against Window During M. H. & L. Operation

Council met in the city building today and passed Councilman Genslinger's motion stating that the Manufacturers Light and Heat company should pay damages to Sam Ginsberg, Moravia street, amounting to about $20.00. The company laid a new gas line in Moravia street. During the operations a passing auto truck "picked up" a piece of brick, it was alleged, and hurled it against the Ginsberg window. It required repairs.

The company said an insurance investigator indicated the window had been cracked previously but council did not believe it could have been and not been damaged more. They thought the company should pay the damage.

It was alleged by the attorney that Mrs. Zimmerman tripped in a hole in the Scioto Street sidewalk during February. In falling she sustained a compound fracture of a forearm.

"Gifts For Building The Tabernacle"

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Honor Jehovah with thy substance,
And with the first-fruits of all thine increase.—Prov. 3:9.

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International uniform lesson for August 28 is Exodus 35:4-36:7, especially 35:21-29, the Golden Text being Prov. 3:9, "Honour the Lord with the substance, and with the first fruits of all thine increase.")

Sincerity of heart is the first requirement of religion, and it is this which is written large over this whole story of the erection of the Tabernacle. It is found in the recurrence of such phrases as these: "Whosoever is of a willing heart, let him bring it, the Lord's offering." "Let every wise hearted man among you come, and make all that the Lord hath commanded." "And they came, every one whose heart stirred him up, and every one whom his spirit made willing and brought the Lord's offering for the work." "They came, both men and women, as many as were willing hearted." "All the women that were wise hearted did spin." "The children of Israel brought a free will offering unto the Lord; every man and woman whose heart made them willing." "Every wise-hearted man in whose heart the Lord had put wisdom, even everyone whose heart stirred him up to come unto the work to do it."

The Sufficiency of Sincerity.

Thus with complete absence of specialists, organizers, campaign managers and the like the sufficiency of sincerity as the first essential recourse is proven when we read the result: "The people bring much more than enough for the service of the work, which the Lord commanded to make. . . . So the people were restrained from bringing."

There is no trace of grumbling or grudging in the entire story. No one is heard making the charge, "The church is always begging." There seems instead to have been a general recognition of Jehovah's ownership of all and a spontaneity of heart prompting a generous outpouring of offerings both of time and talents as well as of possessions to glorify God in building for him and for themselves a place of spiritual worship. To them religion was more than a matter of the lips; it was a matter of love and life and loyalty poured out without counting of cost.

Consecrated Craftsmanship.

God's use of our several abilities for the accomplishment of his purposes is admirably represented in the words: "He hath filled him with the Spirit of God, in wisdom, in understanding and in knowledge, and in all manner of workmanship." Here we have in order, divine inspiration, personal genius, understanding of and appreciation of the talents of our associates, experience even though gained in the hard school of Egyptian slavery, and faithful execution of the work of the glory of God. Craftsmanship so guided and consecrated loses all qualities of the so-called "secular" vocation and becomes profoundly sacred, no matter what the type of building.

It is not the fact that it is a Tabernacle on which men work that hallows their craftsmanship, or secularizes their vocation if they work not on or in tabernacles or churches. It is rather the fact that they "do all to the glory of God." Doing this the carpenter, the metal worker, the textile worker makes his or her vocation sacred; failing to do this, even the minister may secularize his.

Confidence Worker Fails In Efforts To Secure Cigarets

Ordered From Klafters In Name Of Well Known Drug Firm But Alert Clerk Fools Him

Alertness of Morris Storch, salesman at the Sam Klafter cigar store, prevented a confidence man from getting away with 5000 cigarets. Storch received a telephone message ostensibly from Love and Megowns ordering 5000 cigarets.

Storch told the man at the other end of the telephone that their delivery man was not in at present, whereupon the man said that he would come over and get the cigarets.

In a few minutes a young man appeared. Storch did not remember ever having seen him before and asked him if he was a new man at the drug store. He replied that he was.

Storch then asked him if he was a druggist. "No" he replied, I wish I was. Storch then inferred that he was employed at the soda fountain.

Storch was not quite satisfied and something prompted him to call up Love and Megown, to ask a question regarding the cigarets. He was informed that no order had been placed for the cigarets.

Turning to face his customer, Storch found that he was gone. Another customer who was in the store said that the man had beaten a hasty retreat when he heard Storch ask regarding the order. His game was evidently to get the 5000 cigarets for himself.

Utilities Must Make Changes Now

City Informs Utilities Washington Street Is To Be Widened

Council has directed City Clerk William T. Burns to serve written notice on all public utilities here that the city and state propose to widen the cartway of East Washington street between County Line and Ray streets. They will be instructed to perform any work they may have to do before the operation starts.

Cool your cakes on wire racks which can be bought for a small sum. The cakes cool much more satisfactorily in this way, since the air can reach all sides.

Open Bids For Signal System

Conference To Be Held Before Gamewell System Is Bought

Mayor Charles B. Mayne recommended to council which met in city hall today the purchase of the Gamewell Police Alarm system, the bid of the Gamewell having been considered by the mayor more advantageous than the bid of the Bell Telephone company.

Before a roll call could be taken on the motion, Councilman David O. Davies said that several points of law are involved and he could not vote on the motion until they were clarified. They referred, he said to an increase in the city's indebtedness.

The mayor expressed himself as being willing to have the question discussed and sometime today or early Saturday morning council will convene informally with Solicitor Robert White after which the motion will receive action Monday morning.

The bid presented officially to the city at this morning's session by the Gamewell gave the city option of purchasing the system on a rental plan. The city is asked to pay $1,050 the first year and $1,396 for each of the next nine years after which it can be bought for $1.

The Bell Telephone company offered to continue the present system for $104.13 a month if a smaller switchboard were installed. Providing the present system and same switchboard is used the company offered it for $118.13 a month.

Oldest Woman In France Prefers Plane To Auto

(International News Service)

PARIS, Aug. 26—After a thorough search made in all departments of France, it has finally been decided that Mademoiselle Alexandrine Francoise Casteran, 108, is the oldest woman in the country.

She is a spinster living in the Pyrenees and for over ninety years has carried fruit and vegetables from her little plot of land to the neighboring market of St. Bernard. Her fiance was killed in an accident when Mademoiselle was a young girl and she has never been able to turn her intentions to another.

This centenarian drinks and eats as much as she likes and what she likes. She believes that food and drink have little to do with living to a good old age. Moderation in all things is her motto, except work. She urges those who would live long to avoid automobiles for "they are the invention of the devil." Airplanes, she finds, are far less dangerous.

Councilmen To View Sidewalks

Hoskins Reports That Some Washington Street 'Walks' High, Also Low

Council will tour East Washington street between County Line and Ray street today for the purpose of ascertaining where the sidewalks are high or low. It was reported by Acting Engineer Harry Hoskins that in East Washington street between Butler and Ray streets they are high on the west side and in the vicinity of Chestnut street the sidewalks are lower.

The cartway is to be widened and the curb set back at least three feet and before the work starts council will reach a decision as to what action to take relative to the high and low sidewalks.

GROUP WILL HEAR NORMAN THOMAS

A large group of local people will go to Tarentum, Pa., this evening to hear Norman Thomas, candidate of the Socialist Party for President, who speaks in the high school auditorium there at 8 p. m. This is the last date he will be heard in this district until September 10, when he will speak in Erie.

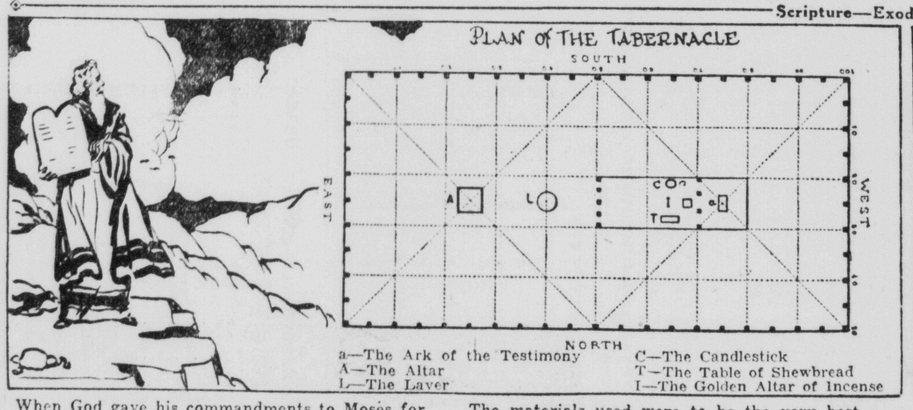
"Gifts for Building the Tabernacle" ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Exodus 35:4—36:7



a—The Ark of the Testimony
A—The Altar
L—The Layer
C—The Candlestick
T—The Table of Shewbread
I—The Golden Altar of Incense

When God gave his commandments to Moses for the building of the Tabernacle he gave directions as exact as any architect would give for the erection and furnishing of a church. He instructed how to make the altar, laver, golden candlestick, shew-bread table, incense altar and ark of the covenant.

The materials used were to be the very best—acacia wood covered with gold, richly embroidered linens, brilliantly colored leather, etc. The Tabernacle proper was divided into two courts called the "holy place" and the "holy of holies", separated by a rich veil. Around these was a great court enclosed with linen curtains.

All this was made possible by the generosity of the people who made their offerings to God with willing hearts whether they gave materials or labor: "Every one whose heart stirred him up, and every one whom his spirit made willing, brought Jehovah's offering for the work of the tent of meeting."

Copyright, 1932, by Central Press Association, Inc.

All, therefore, brought gifts of labor. It was not the value of the gift that counted but the love of the heart that prompted the gift. "They came, both men and women, as many as were willing hearted." This is all that matters with God now as then in our gifts to him of self or substance.

THE CLOVER FARM STORES

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

POULTRY TOUR AUGUST 30

Lawrence county poultrymen are invited to participate in a western Pennsylvania tour August 30th.

The group will meet at the farm of J. C. McCoy Jr., near Emlenton, Venango county, at nine o'clock standard time. This farm can be reached by driving over the New Castle-Franklin improved road to Barkleyville, a short distance beyond Harrisville. At Barkleyville turn right and the McCoy farm will be reached a short distance before entering Emlenton.

The farms of Ralph McCoy and Frank McCoy will also be visited. The McCoy brothers have about 7,000 single comb White Leghorn hens. At 10:15 the group will arrive at the farm of Clarence Cross at Clintonville. Mr. Cross has a flock of New Hampshire Reds. He also breeds Shropshire sheep and Jersey cattle. The next stop is with Dick Critchlow at Harrisville. Mr. Critchlow has a flock of yearling birds which averaged 111 eggs on the day that they were one year old. At West Sunbury the group will visit the farms of Charles Delu and Thomas Mack and son. The next stop will be at the Charles Jordan game farm at Harlansburg. This farm is of unusual unique interest to poultrymen. The last stop will be at the farm of Thomas Ritchey, Grove City. Mr. Ritchey operates a hatchery and also has laying flocks.

Lawrence county growers participating in the tour should take their lunch with them for the basket picnic dinner, which will be served at West Sunbury.

SWEET CLOVER MAKES BEST GROWTH FIRST YEAR

Farmers growing sweet clover should keep in mind that during the first year the more top growth they have the more root development and consequently the more plant food stored in the roots.

Unlike red clover and alfalfa sweet clover does not renew growth from the crown the first year, but from lateral branches. It is this characteristic of sweet clover that causes many farmers who apparently have a good catch to fail to get a stand, the seeding dying out after the nurse crop is harvested.

For this reason farmers harvesting a sweet clover nurse crop such as wheat, oats or barley have cut it high enough to leave branches on the clover. Farmers should refrain from pasturing the new seedling too close or in cutting it for hay during the summer.

It is the nature of the plant to store plant food in its roots during early fall for the second year's growth. Where it is desirable to make hay from the first year's seeding the least damage will be done if the crop is cut in the late fall after the plant has had a chance to store a fair supply of food. The same thing is true of pasturing.

FARMERS MUST WEED OUT THE SCRUB BULL

There is urgent need for a weeding out process among the dairy bulls in use on Lawrence county farms.

Much has been said and written in recent years about the importance of culling scrub cows from dairy herds, but comparatively little about the need of extending the weeding out process to the herd sires. Scrub bulls are the progenitors of scrub cows and the most effective way of keeping scrub cows out of the future herd is to destroy their source and thus prevent them from coming into existence.

Milk production or working ability in dairy cows is an inherited character, and no bull should be used on dairy farms unless he is a pure bread and from a family of high milk production. It is especially important that his dam and other closely related cows have good records.

Without good inheritance a bull cannot transmit high milk producing ability to his daughters. To continue to use bulls of inferior breeding is to place a serious handicap on the dairy business of the future.

Good bulls can now be purchased at lower prices than at any time during recent years and right now would be a good time to start the hunt for a bull with breeding that would seem to insure a decided improvement in the dairy herd.

The Lawrence County Agricultural Extension Association has under way a project or plan designed to aid those dairy farmers who wish to improve the breeding program on their own farms.

FIRE BLIGHT INFECTING MANY COUNTY ORCHARDS

Lawrence county orchardists are warned to watch for the appearance of fire blight in their apple orchards.

Fire blight in the form of twig blight has been reported as being very prevalent in certain sections this season. He explains that so far as the twig blight is concerned nothing can be done at present except to prevent cankers from forming on the larger stems. Precautions must also be taken to prevent the infection from getting on the roots.

All water shoots should be removed at once if they show any signs of blighting. The blight usually follows down these water shoots and forms a canker at the base on the larger stem or on the roots, depending on where the shoots originated.

LATE BLIGHT STRIKES COUNTY POTATO FIELDS

Late blight has appeared in Lawrence county potato fields. If wet or cloudy weather appears the blight is likely to spread. In those sections where the disease has reached an epidemic stage severe tuber rot may be expected, unless precautions are taken to control the blight.

Control is not difficult where growers are making the prescribed number of applications of bordeaux mixture, consisting of eight pounds of bluestone and eight pounds of a good grade of lime in 100 gallons of water. Application of this spray should be at weekly intervals during the remainder of the growing season.

Three Buildings Razed By Flames

Crippled Father Escapes With His Two Children, Low Water Hampers Firemen

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 26.—Two dynamite bombs and a fire destroyed three buildings today while a crippled father scurried to safety with his two children in a blanket.

When the blast wrecked his home, Albert Navarro, crippled, wrapped his children in a blanket and escaped from the flames, which damaged his home in McKeesport.

Unable to obtain water, four fire companies, Tarentum, Brackenridge, Curtisville, and New Kensington, stood by as fire levelled a building housing the Russleton post office and Bessemer Supply company. A creek, ordinarily the only water source, was rendered useless by the drought.

The detonation of another dynamite bomb damaged the grocery and residence of Andrew Danzak.

FRIEND TOLD HIM ABOUT ALL-BRAN

And It Brought Relief From Constipation

Those who are bothered with constipation should read Mr. Gelpke's unsolicited letter:

"I have suffered with constipation for years. A friend of mine told me to try ALL-BRAN. I have taken ALL-BRAN for the past six weeks as a breakfast food. It has regulated my bowels as clockwork. Now I would not be without a package at all times." — Mr. Leslie Gelpke, 273 Ridgewood Ave., Newark, N. J.

Common constipation—with its headaches, loss of appetite, sleeplessness — is due to lack of "bulk" to exercise the intestines, Vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. Both are present in Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, as well as iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. Being a natural corrective, ALL-BRAN is not habit-forming.

Try ALL-BRAN in place of pills and drugs—so often harmful. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily — serious cases with every meal. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

In the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Modification Will Not Repeal State Measure

Snyder Act Was Made Flexible In Belief That Congress Might Waver

AUTOMATICALLY UNDERGOES CHANGE

By SIDNEY H. EIGES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Aug. 26.—Congressional modification of the Volstead Act would leave Pennsylvania's Snyder-Armstrong Act for prohibition enforcement wholly undisturbed.

If wet leaders in congress are able to muster enough votes to raise the alcoholic content of beer above the restrictions now in the Volstead law, the state's flexible counterpart of that act will, nevertheless, remain effective and its repeal will not be necessary because of a conflict with federal regulations.

Framers Looked Ahead

The framers of the Snyder-Armstrong Act, which was signed by Gov. Gifford Pinchot March 27, 1923, made their law flexible as they feared the opinions of congress might be altered in later years, it was revealed by Attorney General William A. Schnader. The act grants power to state, county, municipal and borough authorities to enforce the prohibition laws.

If the Volstead Act is modified, the Snyder Act will automatically undergo the same modification. For the Snyder Act, according to the Attorney General, accepts the congressional definition of "intoxicating liquor." If congress permits more than one half of one per cent beer to be manufactured, so will the Snyder-Armstrong Act, provided the congressional action shall be constitutional, according to Schnader.

The Snyder Act did not attempt to define "intoxicating liquor" but accepted the congressional definition. The elasticity of the Snyder statute is exemplified in section I of the act:

Liberal Construction

"Be it enacted that this entire act is an exercise of the power granted by amendment XVIII of the Constitution of the United States and of the police powers of this commonwealth for the protection of the public welfare, health, peace, safety and morals of the peoples of this commonwealth—and all of its provisions shall be liberally construed for the accomplishment of these purposes."

Concerning the definition of "intoxicating liquor" the act states:

"The phrase, 'intoxicating liquor,' as used in this act, shall mean anything found and determined, from time to time, to be intoxicating by act of congress passed pursuant to, and in the enforcement of, the Constitution of the United States."

Thus, "intoxicating liquor" under the Snyder-Armstrong law now is any beverage with more than one half of one per cent alcohol. If congress decides to raise the alcoholic content to four per cent, so also will the Snyder-Armstrong law without further legislation.

Anthropologist Finds Traces Of Arikara Indians

(International News Service)

MOBRIDGE, S. D., Aug. 26.—Evidences of the oldest inhabitants of the North American continent have been discovered in the Signal Buttes region, about 60 miles northwest of Sidney, Neb., according to Dr. W. D. Strong, ethnologist of the Smithsonian Institute. Dr. Strong was in Mobridge with a group of 12 scientists preparing for a research expedition into the ancient mound builders' settlements along the Missouri river.

Dr. Strong said that he found three distinct strata, indicating three different periods from 5,000 years ago, while the latest brought the inhabitants up to a period about 250 years ago.

In the lowest, or oldest strata, Dr. Strong found many broken animal bones, which indicated the inhabitants had eaten the marrow from within the bones.

Dr. Strong and a group of anthropologists from the New Mexico laboratory of anthropology at Santa Fe are seeking further evidences of pre-historic culture from among the mounds built by the Arikara Indians along the Missouri river between here and Council Bluffs, Iowa.

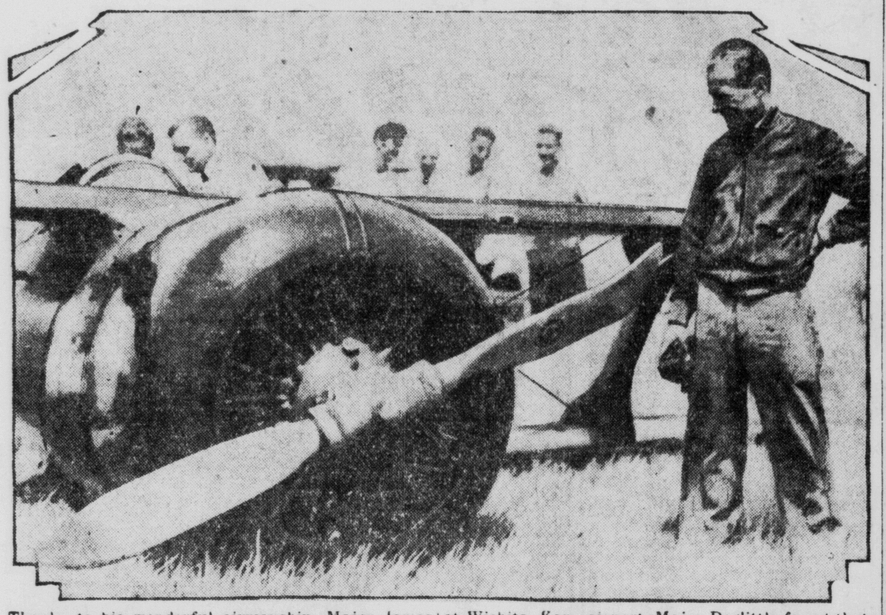
Brilliant Airmanship Saved Plane



Thanks to his wonderful airmanship, Major James Doolittle, probably the most skilful aviator in the world, is able to survey the damage to his speedy Laird biplane while standing on his feet instead of doing so from a stretcher. While up for a test flight at Wichita, Kan., airport, Major Doolittle found that the plane's retractable landing was out of order, stuck inside the fuselage. Disdaining to use his parachute, abandoning the plane, the daring airman maneuvered the craft to a safe landing on its "belly."

Philanthropic Doctor Cures Thousands But Remains Poor

(International News Service)

CHIUSI, Italy, Aug. 26.—Arturo Toscanini, who had to break his New York engagements last winter owing to severe neuritis in his right arm, has been completely cured by a country doctor in a small village near here, called Le Piazza.

This is not the first extraordinary cure made by Doctor Rinaldi, who has helped thousands of others, but his fame has not yet reached America, because most of his patients are Italians who never leave their own country.

Middle aged and small, he wears a white overall and top boots, fit for muddy roads. Dr. Rinaldi has his secret. And he refuses, not only to share it with other doctors, but to commercialize it. Large druggists have offered him millions to put his medicines on the market.

"No," is his invariable answer. "So long as I make up my own injections they will remain pure. Besides, every patient needs peculiar care, and varying proportions."

"Six minutes after having my first injection, I was free from pain," Toscanini stated. "Now I am permanently cured. I can now take up my work again."

La Piazza is just a simple village where there are hardly any patients in the winter. For there is no modern hotel with heating; only some boarding houses where the winter must be terrible and the usual farm houses which take lodgers as soon as spring sets in.

From spring to late fall Dr. Rinaldi treats patients who go to him crippled and in agony and start taking long walks after the third or fourth injection.

The doctor's greatest triumphs are with patients suffering from nervous disorders, arthritis, rheumatism. But he has done wonders with men and women suffering from heart trouble. He insists on a simple mode of life. If they won't promise to obey him, he sends them away.

What does he use of injections? Nobody knows. He mixes them all himself, and does all the injections without the help of an assistant.

"They are perfectly simple," he answers questioners. "Any doctor can find them in the drug store around the corner."

But no doctor has. And this may be why Doctor Rinaldi has so much opposition. There are times when the medical profession attacks him furiously. He has been called all the names that docttors can call those who, in their opinion, should not be allowed to "tamper with patients."

Lately, however, opposition has been silent. The string of costly automobiles which drive up to his neat but modest house at the end of the village proves that people travel miles to consult him. He will not have disobedient patients. If they disobey orders, he sends them back where they came from.

He works from three in the afternoon, three in the morning. Then he sleeps till the following afternoon and none of the villagers dare make any noise near his house while the "Miracle-worker of Le Piazza" takes his rest.

And he is still a poor man. He cures hundreds of people for nothing, and thousands for less than an ordinary general doctor charges.

Expedition Will Explore Africa's 'River Of Gold'

Fleet Of Specially Built Desert Trucks For Transportation

By WILLIAM PARKER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Aug. 26.—The Prorok trans-saharian expedition, headed by the explorer, Count Byron de Prorok, leaves shortly to explore the last stand of mystery in Africa.

Twelve hundred miles of the unknown Rio de Ore, "river of gold," will be explored which will close the last chapter of discovery in the dark continent.

A fleet of specially built desert automobile trucks will leave Algiers September 1, cross the Atlas mountains and go to the "forbidden city" of Smara. Prehistoric caves will be explored for trace of the origin of man in the Soutern Atlas.

Count de Prorok has for twelve years been exploring in various parts of the world, and hopes finally to establish the cradle of humanity in the Rio de Ore and Mauritania in opposition to Roy Chapman Andrews' theory that the Gobi desert in Central Asia saw the beginning of civilized man.

French scientists are of the belief, according to County de Prorok, that the great question of "lost Atlantis" will be answered some day by such an expedition as the count is heading.

Count de Prorok has negotiated with the warlike independent tribes, the Regiebat and the Ouled Delims for safe passage.

For a portion of the journey, the expedition will abandon the motorcars and travel on camels and disguised as natives to reach the vast tombs of the lost Mauritan kingdom in the interior of the mountains.

Arrangements have been made, Count de Prorok related, to deposit stores of food and gasoline every 500 miles across the Sahara.

A military escort will accompany the party through the most dangerous sections.

Count de Prorok said the expedition was in collaboration with the French and Spanish governments. In addition to Prorok it will include 14 specialists and 8 mechanics, a talkie-movie outfit and wireless staff.

American participation in the expedition is being handled, according to Count de Prorok by George Palmer Putnam and Raymond Schindler, New York.

Count de Prorok, excavator of Carthage, led the first expedition last year to the famous sacred city of Ghat, in the heart of the Tripolitan Sahara, discovering a vast walled prehistoric city.

Secret Service Operator Traces Counterfeit Bills

Local Merchants Are Warned To Be On The Lookout For Fake Ten Dollar Notes

William A. Landvoigt, secret service operator was a visitor in the city today, seeking to trace counterfeit $10 Federal Reserve notes which have been flooding the country.

Although none of these notes have appeared in New Castle as far as could be learned, they have been passed in nearby cities and merchants and bankers here have been warned to be on the lookout for them.

The note is issued on the Federal Reserve bank of New York, bearing the serial number B 277 234 86A and check number G 277.

The seal is printed in heavier green ink than is used by the government in printing their notes, and the picture of Hamilton on the face of the note is somewhat scratched and blurred.

The back of the bill is printed with extremely heavy green ink, also much heavier than that used by the government, and the note is one-eighth of an inch shorter than the regular $10 bill. Merchants here were warned thorugh the Credit Exchange to be on the lookout for the bills.

ACROBATIC FISH LEAPS INTO NET

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 26.—Ever heard of an acrobatic fish?

Edwin L. Fisher, a plumber of Harrisburg, tells how he landed one, and has two sons and a relative for witnesses.

Fisher claims that while wading the Conodoguinet stream, a 10-inch bass, disdaining to accept a baited hook, did a somersault right into a hand net which was on the lucky fisherman's shoulder.

His next leap was into the frying pan, which ended Mr. Bass' acrobatic career.

Measures Passed And Rejected By Assembly At Special Session

While the general results of the recent extraordinary session of the General Assembly are fairly well established in the minds of the people, some detailed statement of bills passed and major bills killed by the session may further aid in giving the average reader a thumb-nail sketch of what happened.

The two things that stand out most, perhaps, were the passage of the $12,000,000 relief bill and a money-raising sales tax bill of one per cent, which will provide the necessary $12,000,000. In addition to these there were a number of pieces of legislation passed and signed which are of importance to the state, and a number of bills were killed that would have been unwise legislation had they been passed and signed.

For the most part, bills that were killed in committee were killed because the attorney general ruled that they were outside the call of the governor. Under the constitution, a special session is limited in its scope to consideration of bills that come only within the call of the governor for the session. Bills passed and signed, and major bills killed, follow.

Measures Passed

Major bills enacted by General Assembly:

Act to permit the secretary of banking to borrow funds from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to repay depositors in closed banks. Passed both houses unanimously.

Joint resolution to ratify proposed amendment to the federal constitution abolishing lame duck session of Congress. Passed both houses unanimously.

Act appropriating $336,000 for general expenses of special session of Legislature. First bill adopted by unanimous vote in both houses.

Act reducing state expenses by $13,700,000, savings, to be used in offsetting estimated deficit in receipts and restoring abatements taken last spring from mothers' assistance funds, state-aided hospitals and state-aided educational institutions.

Act empowering building and loan associations to borrow from Federal Home Loan Bank. Voted unanimously by both houses.

Act to allow Pittsburgh and Philadelphia city councils to levy taxes on any subjects not already taxed by state. Passed both houses unanimously.

Act creating state relief board to disburse state or federal relief funds. Passed both houses unanimously.

Act to restrict size of motor vehicles and increasing some license fees. Adopted by House, 162-16; by Senate, 36-4.

Act appropriating $12,000,000 for allocation among counties by state relief board. Passed House, 166 to 3; passed Senate unanimously.

Resolution authorizing committees to investigate charges against William D. B. Ainey, who was forced to resign as chairman of the public service commission. Passed in Senate without dissent.

Resolution authorizing special committee to investigate relations of public utilities with public service commission. Passed Senate without dissent.

Act appropriating $100,000 for expenses of public service commission investigation. Passed unanimously.

Joint resolution creating legislative committee to investigate the high cost of government in Allegheny County and report to the General Assembly of 1933, Adopted without objection.

What's the Reason for this swing to Chesterfield

We believe it's Mildness and Better Taste

IF YOUR cigarette is mild—that is, not strong, not bitter, but smokes cool and smooth—then you'll like it and don't worry about how many you smoke.

If your cigarette tastes right; if it tastes better—that is, not oversweet; and if it has a pleasing aroma—then you enjoy it the more.

Everything known to Science is used to make Chesterfield Cigarettes milder and taste better and to give them a pleasing aroma.

QUIET RETURNS TO ILLINOIS COAL MINE FIELDS

March Of Miners Has Been Halted

Invaders Disperse After First Repulse And Peace Is Restored

MINES OPERATE IN FRANKLIN COUNTY

(International News Service)

BENTON, Ill., Aug.—Serenity settled upon Franklin county today as its citizens resumed their usual occupations, elated over their victory in repelling the invading mine strikers' expeditionary force.

Every mine in the county, which is the heart of the Illinois coal mining section, that ordinarily operates was being worked today.

Reign Of Terror Ends

The reign of terror which culminated in the battle of the Little Muddy River Wednesday night, when an invading horde of 15,000 striking protestors against the $5 per day basic wage scale were turned back, was ended.

A survey of the southern and central Illinois coal mining regions disclosed only a few straggling members of the ill-fated motor cavalcade who had not returned to their homes. In most instances this was due to lack of funds and the consequent inability to buy gasoline so the defeated, discouraged and for the time being, disorganized members of the invading force could not get back to their own communities.

Dollar Day Is Drawing Throng

Stores Are Crowded With Purchasers As Two-Day Event Opens This Morning

With New Castle merchants uniting in one common effort, namely, to offer the most sensational values that have ever been given the citizens of New Castle and surrounding territory, the first of two Dollar Day sales events started this morning.

That the merchants are offering recognized values is proven by the large number of people who thronged the various participating stores this morning, each eager to share in the values provided.

The event had been planned several weeks in advance by the merchants and thorough preparation was made by every store to secure merchandise of a high class which could be offered at the lowest price possible. As a result, some of the biggest bargains that have ever been offered here are resulting. Prices are cheaper perhaps than they will ever be again.

The sale will be continued tomorrow, and more people are expected to take part in the buying carnival than ever before at the previous Dollar Day events in the past.

Merchants who are taking part are displaying black and gold pennants on their stores, identifying them as backing the Better Business bureau and associated merchants in this big event.

PEARL McCONNELL

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Aug. 26.—Among the many freshmen already enrolled at Westminster college for the coming year are two graduates of the New Wilmington high school in June. They are Miss Irma Wible of New Wilmington and Miss Pearl Irene McConnell, Volant.

Both young ladies were popular members of the New Wilmington high school class and both stood high in scholarship, Miss McConnell being valedictorian of her class.

In addition to these two graduates of the local high school, Westminster's freshman class will claim graduates from schools in New Haven, Conn.; Monroe, Mich.; Cooperstown, N. Y., and Philadelphia, Cleveland, Youngstown, Pittsburgh, New Castle, Sharon and many other towns and cities.

Westminster's 81st college year starts on Monday, September 12, when freshmen report for "orientation week". During this period first year students will have a number of mass meetings at which college officials and campus leaders will talk. A number of picnics, teas, parties and other social activities are planned for the evenings in order that freshmen may become acquainted with one another and with college officials and campus leaders.

Canning Project To Be Discussed

Meeting Of Workers Who Supervised Project Last Year Will Be Held

Although it had not been intended to enter into a community canning project, such as was carried out last summer, agitation in some circles has resulted in a call being issued for next Monday of the women who supervised the work last summer to discuss the proposition.

It has been estimated that the work done by New Castle women last summer in canning fruit and vegetables, saved the county and Mayor's Relief Committee, approximately $20,000 which would have had to been spent to supply the food which was canned by the workers.

It is proposed to use cans, manufactured at the local can plant, and can only tomatoes, peaches, and to make apple butter under the present plan.

Pool Will Be Filled Tuesday

The cement pool of the Y. W. C. A.'s Camp East Brook will be filled with water Tuesday evening of next week in preparation for the East Brook community picnic which is to take place at the camp.

At the present time there is no one at the camp.

Eynon Charged With Gasoline Tax Laxity

Secretary King Hurls New Charges At Dismissed Head Of Motor Bureau

Claims Commonwealth Even Paid For Eynon's Ice For Period Of Two Years

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 26.—Benjamin G. Eynon of Scranton, dismissed as head of the bureau of motor vehicles by Dr. Clyde L. King, state secretary of revenue, Thursday was charged by his former superior with failure to collect state gasoline taxes.

In a new blast at administration of Eynon, connected with the bureau since 1919, Dr. King charged he had permitted gasoline bootleggers "to get away with one dollar out of every five dollars of the money due the state."

Letter Produced.

Dr. King also made public copies of a letter written by Eynon to Charles Pearson of Pittsburgh in which the bureau head announced special license numbers had been issued to certain of the Volpe brothers, prominent in Pittsburgh racketeering circles.

Eynon was dismissed by Dr. King on the charge that he had given special license numbers to lawbreakers and had brought the work of the department into "disrepute."

The collection of gasoline taxes under Eynon's direction had grown so lax that the commonwealth became the "happy hunting ground" of all gasoline bootleggers in the nation, the King statement charged.

At that time only one out of every five gasoline dealers in the state were compelled to procure the license as required by law, the secretary asserted.

Shortly after inception of the present administration, Eynon issued a statement in which he charged that gasoline taxes had been collected largely on the basis of political favoritism, but placed the blame on Charles Johnson, who preceded Dr. King as secretary of revenue.

The King statement also charged Eynon with extravagance in the administration of the bureau. It pointed out that for the first ten months of the present fiscal year operating costs were cut more than $100,000 below those for an entire 12 months period when Eynon was in charge.

Charge Free Ice.

Dr. King charged Eynon with having ice delivered to his home for "about two years" at the expense of the state. The King statement was based on a report of the bureau made by Main and company, auditors and accountants. The secretary said the practice of having Eynon's ice bills paid by the commonwealth was stopped immediately after completion of the audit.

Under Dr. King's direction, the bureau of motor vehicles recently became the target for a number of economy moves in which not only high salaried deputy commissioners of various kinds were removed but labor saving machinery was installed to reduce the cost of clerical labor.

The letter asking for special license numbers for the Volpe brothers was written on the stationery of the commissioners of Allegheny county and was signed with the one word—"Pearson".

"Pearson" was Charles Pearson, a Pittsburgh newspaperman, who formerly was head of the publicity bureau of the state department of highways. Although active in the gubernatorial campaign of Gov. Gifford Pinchot, Pearson was removed from his office about a year ago.

Special Plates.

The letter to Pearson confirming assignment of special plates to the Volpe brothers, also carried a notice that plates No. 429 were reserved for William R. McNamara. The letter expressed regret that no special assignments could be made for J. B. Barnett and Melton Morse. The letter was signed Benj. G. Eynon, commissioner of motor vehicles, according to the copies supplied by Dr. King.

After summing up his various charges and objections against Eynon, the King statement concluded: "A pearson with such low standards of public administration has no place in the department of revenue."

SUBSTITUTES

A good substitute for cherries, berries, etc., is jelly. Have jelly very cold, then cut in tiny cubes. When gelatin begins to thicken, carefully add the jelly cubes. It's as good as it's colorful and yet different. Here is a combination: Lemon gelatin, thin slices bananas, canned cubed or crushed pineapple, grape jelly cubes, strawberry jelly cubes; serve with whipped cream.

Mayor Says Child Could Do His Work

Only Takes About Two Hours A Day At Youngstown

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 26.—"My little daughter could handle the mayoralty duties in this city and most others," Mark E. Moore, who made this statement last fall, while a candidate for mayor, repeated it today after nearly eight months as mayor of Youngstown.

Moore remarked that his official duties take about two hours a day.

"Observe that I say my official duties," Moore continued, "for I do not consider an official duty the long, hard task of receiving and pacifying job-seekers throughout the day and night.

"Sure, the city needs a mayor for social purposes," he concluded, "but to discharge legitimate duties, he should work on an hourly basis."

Relief Board Adopts Rules

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 26.—The newly created state relief board at its second meeting today adopted rules and policies for the direct distribution of $12,000,000 in relief funds.

The first principle governing distribution of the fund, the board decided, shall be "that all relief be distributed on the sole basis of actual need, to persons who have been residents of Pennsylvania for one year, regardless of race, color, religion, citizenship or politics."

By Local Boards.

The board also decided definitely that the relief funds made available by the state and any which may be received from the federal government as a loan from the R. F. C. shall be distributed by individuals boards of citizens set up in each county. Allocations to the counties each month will be determined by the state board.

Letters to persons in each county will be forwarded today or tomorrow asking them to serve as members of the local boards. Until a list of acceptances has been completed, the board decided to withhold announcement of the personnel.

All members of the county boards will be asked to attend a meeting in the governor's reception room Wednesday, August 31, when details of their work to be done will be determined.

The rules adopted specify that no relief shall be given to any person who has been offered work and refused to accept. Funds distributed by the county boards must be used solely for food orders, work relief or "other forms of actual relief."

Professional welfare workers will be barred from sharing in the state funds. All cost of local administration must be met through public or private subscription.

County boards will be permitted to recognized or cooperate with local welfare organizations in the distribution of the relief funds. However, such organizations must be willing to submit their books for auditing. The county boards also must keep their records so that they may be audited by employes of the auditor general's department.

Allocation to counties or minor political and civil divisions will be made by the state board only upon application of the local authorities.

If such applications are from minor civil divisions they must be made to the state board through the local county boards. Such applications must give the number of unemployed. The number dependent upon relief and must explain the manner in which funds allocated under the first Talbot Act were expended.

Each application must also establish that the community has done everything possible to care for the situation before appealing for state funds. The applications must show the local borrowing to meet relief needs and private donations received in 1931 as compared with totals in normal years and that ratio to the entire estimate income of the county.

The county boards will be permitted to give relief either in food or food orders but not in actual cash. Actual cash will not be handled by the local boards in any manner or any time. Local communities will be expected to raise the money for other needs, in addition to food, such as rent, light, heat, clothing, medicine and other articles.

Decisions regarding the extension of relief mainly upon the basis of work projects will be left largely to the county boards. When such projects are established, able-bodied men will be expected to perform labor in return for the value of the relief received, the board decided.

terday at the hospital by Adolph Green, president of the People's Savings & Trust company, and at once recalled who the man was, also the nature of the business that had been transacted for him. He advised Mr. Green that all the records of the transaction were on file and these were located and their contents are given later, showing what actually was included.

Kozamczak, calm and free from any apparent fear of the result of his terrible act, made statements relative to the case to Chief of Police and other officers, and later to the district attorney, John S. Powers, which he signed, in which he made it appear that it was the loss of a legal paper relative to his property in Poland that had caused him to attempt the life of Melnyk.

When informed that he could have secured a copy of the paper he alleges he never received for approximately 84 cents in American money instead of taking the action he did, he shrugged his shoulders and remarked in his native tongue something like this, "What's the difference any way?"

His statements to the authorities brought out the fact that he is not a citizen of this country. His every action of Thursday was premeditated, it was also shown.

Terming the legal paper a deed to his property in "Little Russia" as he called it, and which is in reality a part of Poland, Kozamczak stated that he had turned it over to Melnyk three years ago with $5 for services to be rendered.

In his broken tongue explanation, it was understood that he sought to have Melnyk locate his son. He claims that a correspondence was established with the son and that the son urged him to deed the property to him. There appeared to be trouble between the son and the mother, wife of Kozamczak, who was living with another man. The paper was sent to Poland but was to be returned.

Admits Shooting.

He claims he asked Melnyk for the legal paper several times and that Melnyk informed him that it was mailed to his box at Bessemer. He inquired there but claims never to have received it. This was the reason, he said, that he decided to shoot Melnyk, especially as he seemed to have some impression that his property was lost to him.

He calmly admitted htat he came here to shoot Melnyk, having planned what happened for more than a week. He left Bessemer at 7 o'clock Thursday morning intent on the commission of the crime, he said. He secured a ride to the seventh ward and walked from there to the public square, arriving there about 9 o'clock.

Securing a seat on a bench on the south side of the public square from which he had a clear vision of the entrance to the People's Savings & Trust company, he awaited the appearance of his victim.

About 12 o'clock he saw Melnyk leave the bank and come toward Jefferson street. Just as Melnyk was about to turn the Terminal Apothecary corner to go south on Jefferson street, Kozamczak left his seat, crossed Jefferson street, walking fast and was but a short distance behind his victim as the latter turned the corner going south.

Melnyk did not see him, he says, and when he was within eight or ten feet back of Melnyk, he shot him twice in the back. He said he planned it this way, as he did not want to do the shooting in the bank. His capture by P. J. McGovern followed.

Records At Bank Disprove Charges.

According to the records of the case on file in the People's Bank, which clear up the entire transaction and show that Kozamczak was apparently laboring under a misapprehension, he came to this country in 1912. His name according to the bank records is Hryc Kuzemczak and his property is located in Zawadki, Poland.

In May 1929 he came to Melnyk in the bank, stating that he desired to sell his property and asked Melnyk to find out its status. He turned over to Melnyk an abstract of the property and gave him $5 to pay the expense of the service. The cancelled draft of this payment is in possession of the bank at the present time.

The records show that Melnyk sent a letter to Dr. S. Seelenfreund, an attorney at Brzozowie, Galicia, Poland, enclosing the abstract and a draft for his $5 fee and instructions to return the abstract.

In June 1929, a letter was received from the attorney, stating that he had found that Kozamczak had erected buildings on an undivided propertly or partly on other people's property and that in order to adjust the mater it would be necessary to secure a commission and have the property surveyed in order to get the title cleared and said that it would require $100 to defray the expenses. The letter also stated that Kozamczak's wife was living with a man named Wasyl Szwahla and was claiming a half interest in the property.

The bank records show that on July 26, 1929 Melnyk wrote a letter to the attorney stating that the matter had been discussed with the client, Kozamczak and that the latter had decided not to take any further action at the time but would communicate with the priest in the town, after which he might take the matter up again. Melnyk asked the return of the abstract in this letter. In the handwriting of Melnyk on the copy of this letter, is recorded the fact that the abstract or papers of Kozamczak had been mailed October 15, 1929 to Kozamczak's post office box No. 83 in Bessemer.

This establishes the fact that in spite of a contrary opinion of Kozamczak, his property is still in his name.

P. J. McGovern who disarmed Kozamczak, related yesterday that he passed both men as he was enroute north and had gone five or six paces beyond Kozamczak when the shots rang out. Turning quickly, he saw Meynyk on the sidewalk. He sought the man with the gun. Finally he located Kozamczak with the gun in his right hand and drawn in toward his body.

Exercising all possible care but determined to get his man, he edged over and then made a grab, got the gun and the man and took him around to the front of the Terminal Apothecary and asked them to call the police. He held him until officers took him over.

Women Ready To Start Making School Clothes

Organization Is Ready To Start Functioning At Once On Project

NEED BUTTONS AND OTHER SUPPLIES

Expert Cutters Will Supervise Laying Out Of Clothing For Sewers

With their organization completed and ready to function at once, three groups of Lawrence County people are united in a common effort to turn out clothing for those who are in need.

Final plans were outlined at a meeting held Wednesday evening in the home of Mrs. S. D. Pearson of Moody avenue, when representatives of the Federation of Woman's Clubs, Parent-Teachers Associations, and the American Red Cross were present and completed all details.

These organizations will work together in the production and distribution of garments, and will demand the co-operation of those who are to be benefitted.

Every woman desiring clothing for herself or members of her family, will be required to register at the Red Cross and Associated Charities offices, or through the schools. Before they will be permitted to work on clothing, or receive anything, their request must be given the approval of the Central Clearing committee. The clothing will thus be made and distributed under the most rigid supervision.

A group of expert cutters will do all the cutting and laying out, with one supervisor for each group of three women.

The women will be assigned a certain date on which they may come and sew, and no more than ten women will be employed at one time, making for the maximum in efficiency.

Each woman will be expected to make four garments, two of which she can keep for herself and family and the other two must be turned over to the Red Cross or Parent-Teacher Association in her district for emergency use.

If the articles are made from the cloth to be received by the Red Cross, the articles will be turned over to them for distribution. If the clothing is made from sugar sacking or other materials donated, the garments will be turned over to the Parent-Teachers Associations for distribution.

The garments will be given out under the Red Cross system of distribution, the recipient of the garment being required to fill out two forms, one of which will be her receipt while the other will be sent to National headquarters for filing away in their records. The supervisors will take care of this part of the work.

To date, 500 yards of sugar sacking has been received and the organization is ready to proceed with the work at once.

The organization is bady in need of buttons, principally shirt buttons, and remnants of thread which may be of any color, as it is desired to be used for basting purposes. An appeal to the citizens of New Castle and Lawrence county for these two necessities is made by the organization. Heavy cord, and bags and wrapping paper in which to wrap the garments after they have been made, is also needed, which can be left at the office of the Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross. The committee asks that the buttons be threaded on string or heavy thread. Heavy wrapping paper is also desired to make duplicate patterns.

The Mayor's Relief Committee has promised to donate the thread and needles for the making of the garments.

In addition to the great number of heavy sugar sacks already donated, additional donations have been made by T. H. Hitchcock and Urmson Brothers, while Mrs. William Felch gave colored bias trimmings for dresses.

Harry Alexander is chairman of the Red Cross executive committee and Mrs. S. D. Pearson is president of the Federation of Woman's Clubs, whose organizations will be assisted in the work by the Parent-Teachers Associations.

Mr. Alexander in turn has named Mrs. C. J. Kirk as chairman of the Lawrence County Chapter, Red Cross Garment Committee, assisted by Mrs. Mary Conti as vice chairman. Mrs. Marcus Feuchtwanger is chairman of the county districts, and Mrs. Harry Marshall, Sr., is chairman of the Community Service Department of the Federation of Woman's Clubs, who are leading in the movement.

At the meeting held Wednesday evening, those who were present were Mrs. Ruth Calvin representing the Arthur McGill P. T. A.; Mrs Charles H. Young, Highland P. T. A.; Mrs. Mae McConaghy, East Brook P. T. A.; Mrs. David Kay, parochial schools; Mrs. J. A. Weingartner, Shenango P. T. A.; Mrs. Howard Magill, Rhodes Mission; Mrs. W. V. Wagner, Hickory Heights P. T. A.; Mrs. Richard Gwilym, Mahoning P. T. A.; Mrs. Harry Sturdevant, Thaddeus Stevens, P. T. A.; Mrs. Frank Hoover, West Side P. T. A. Others present were Miss Theresa Cover, Welfare Chairman of the West Side P. T. A.; Miss Helen E. Wilson, school nurse; Mrs. Frank Sowersby, volunteer cutter; Mrs. R. R. Maxwell, Hickory Heights; Miss Edith Moore of the Community Service Department of the Federation of Woman's Clubs; Mrs. W. C. Eckenroad, of the Conservation department of the Federation of Woman's Clubs, Mrs. John Deeley of the Parochial schools; Mrs. C. J. Kirk, chairman of the Red Cross Garment Committee, and Harry Alexander, chairman of the Lawrence County Chapter.

At the Mahoningtown school, where an efficient organization has already been established, 16 young Italian women, who have no children of their own, have volunteered to work for those who have children and cannot get away to do this work as easily as they can. Similarly, four colored women, and eight American women have volunteered their assistance in the Mahoningtown district.

All told, 84 have registered in Mahoningtown to aid with the work.

News Of The World As Told In Pictures

Was Pilot on Suicide Flight

Roger Scott, pilot of the plane from which Marjorie Fletcher, Forestville, N. Y., school teacher, jumped to her death, near Annapolis, Md., is shown as he wrote out his report of the tragedy. Miss Fletcher (inset) had been staying with friends in Washington and was driven to desperation owing to her inability to find employment. She chartered the plane for a "birthday trip."

She's Improved!

Miss Caroline Babcack, 17-year-old tennis player, may, some day in the near future, become national tennis champion—if she carries out the promise of her play in the recent Forest Hills meet. Miss Babcock astonished the experts by fighting her way to the finals, defeating the best American and British stars, to reach the championship round.

MOLLISON READY FOR RETURN HOP

Captain James A. Mollison, British aviator who recently completed the first east-west solo flight over the Atlantic, has been grooming his tiny four-cylindered plane for the return hop. He is seen here, top, at Roosevelt Field, N. Y., looking over the motor of the ocean plane, and below, with two mechanics, checking over the engine. The mechanics are W. R. Calder, left; W. HOUSE OF ROOSEVELT IS DIVIDED POLITICALLY

The House of Roosevelt will be politically divided when the nation goes to the polls in November to choose between Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt and President Hoover. Mrs. Roosevelt, the governor's wife, and a niece of the late Republican president, will, of course, vote for her Democratic husband, a sixth cousin of the original "Teddy". However, the dead president's widow, and her children, including Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, and Col. Theodore Roosevelt (the second) will cast their ballots for President Hoover and the Republican ticket.

Capital Notable

Probably no other man in the country can claim a greater number of distinguished friends than Warren D. Robbins (above). He is Master of Ceremonies at the White House and to him falls the task of introducing foreign and national celebrities to the President. Robbins is shown arriving at New York from Europe.

No News, Good News

A June bride, who only enjoyed her wedded bliss for three days, pretty Virginia Franck Rousseau, of Boston, is wondering when she's going to see her husband, Theodore Rousseau, again. Three days after their marriage, Rousseau, a wealthy Harvard University student, sailed for Paris to pacify his father, who had not approved the marriage. He's still in France and Virginia is wondering.

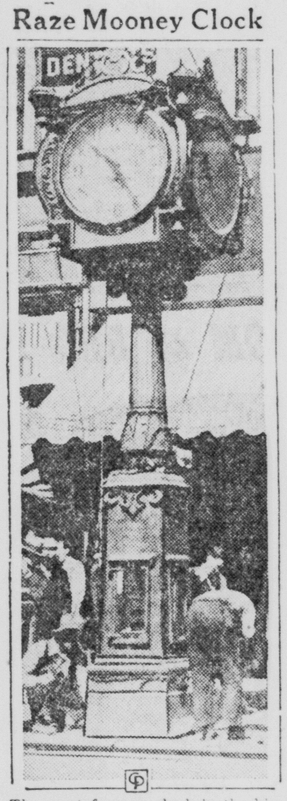
A Great Program

Probably the most welcome words that Mrs. Carl Petersen ever heard come out of her loud speaker were those which told the world that her husband was safe. Mrs. Petersen, wife of Carl Petersen who flew from New York in an attempt to reach Oslo, Norway, but crashed at Darby's Harbor, Newfoundland, is shown as she heard over the air that hubby was unhurt.

Testified at Walker Probe

Paul Block, well-known publisher, is shown with his son, William, as they left the Executive chambers in Albany, after the former had testified on behalf of Mayor James J. Walker. Block repeated the statement made before the Seabury Committee in New York, that a chance remark of his son had led to his making $246,000 for the Mayor. He asserted that his action was through a purely friendly motive.

Raze Mooney Clock



The most famous clock in the history of San Francisco jurisprudence, the one used by the defense in the Tom Mooney preparedness day bombing case, is shown here being removed by workers on Market street, San Francisco. Mooney's defense was based on a picture which showed Mooney and his wife on the roof of a building with the clock indicating the hour of the explosion.

BO M'MILLIN NOW A PROUD PAPA

If heredity means anything in football then you are looking at the All-American quarterback of 1952 in the young fellow seated on the lap of his daddy. The 10-month-old chap is Jere Robert McMillin and his father is—perhaps you recognize him—Bo McMillin, football coach at Kansas State college and All-American quarterback for Centre college 12 years ago.

Flier Honored by Caledonians

Not the least of the honors showered upon Captain James A. Mollison, British trans-Atlantic soloist, since his arrival in New York, was the honorary membership bestowed on him by officials of the Caledonia Club, in recognition of his feat. Here are A. L. FASHION PENDULUM SWINGS BACK

In the gay nineties the leg o' mutton sleeve was popular and the bicycle jacket was "the nuts". Now it's the granddaughter of the wearer of these things who is all pepped up about the puffed sleeve. At the left Jessie Shanks is shown modeling a sports suit of gray wool with black caracul capelet; and at the right she shows the same bulky sleeves in a chic bicycle jacket of red Lyons velvet.

Taking Off With a Whiz

At first glance it would seem as if this plane were just about to land on its tail, but fortunately for the pilot it was going in the opposite direction. Photo shows P. de Angeli, Italian flier making one of his spectacular take-offs at a 45 degree angle at a Berlin, Germany, airport. He was practicing for the air race around Europe which started recently. Like a sprinter, he believes that it is the start that counts.

Titled Adventuress

Tired of the bustle of civilization and desirous of going somewhere where other people seldom go, Lady Louis Mountbatten (above), cousin of King George of England, plans to leave London early next month on an expedition through the wilds of the Persian interior. She will be accompanied by her friend, the Marchioness of Milford Haven. The women will go alone, rough it, and trust to luck.

Jack Hulme, Titan Trainer, Returns From Olympic Games

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Aug. 26—Jack Hulme, director of acquatics and team trainer at Westminster College, returned this week from California where he witnessed the tenth Olympic games.

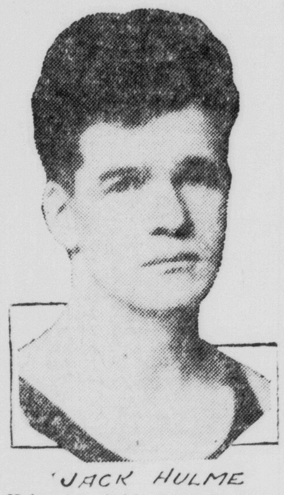
When asked what features of the games impressed him most, Hulme said that the 100 yard dash was by by far the most colorful. "All other activities ceased when the sprints were announced," Hulme claims. The spectacle of the three American entrants finishing in one-two-three order, Hulme declared was the most thrilling part of the games.

"There was not a false start in the Olympic contests," Hulme declared. So well trained were the athletes that, using the slow Olympic start, there was no need of penalties. In the swimming races particularly the starts were all even.

Hulme was also impressed with the showing made by the United States Olympic teams. "They made the best showing in all athletic games in recent years, particularly in track" he said.

While Hulme saw a number of boxing, wrestling, track and other athletic events, his chief purpose of attending the games was to see the swimming and diving events. For these events, Hulme has a reserved seat for the entire acquatic program.

"The Olympic village, where the athletes of the various nations were quartered, was a model one," he said. "Visitors were kept from bothering the athletes in this village."



JACK HULME

Hulme traveled by bus from Pittsburgh to California and return. He stopped enroute at St. Louis, the Grand Canyon and other points.

Since his return, Hulme has spoken at the New Wilmington Rotary Club about the games, and immediately set to work on the menu for the Westminster College football training camp. Within the next ten days, he will be busy taking care of the football squad which reports to Coach John Lawther on August 31.

Chicago Cubs Trim Dodgers

For Second Time In Two Days Chicago Cubs Trim Brooklyn, In Lead 5½ Games

PIRATES DROP TWO TO LOWLY PHILS

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug.26—Brooklyn can kiss the National League pennant goodbye.

Humbled by the League-leading Cubs in the first two games of their crucial three-game series in Chicago, the Dodgers are five and a half games out of first place today. Even if they capture the final game of the series this afternoon, they have muffed their big chance to cut into Chicago's lead.

Brooklyn's only chance is that the Cubs, a poor road team, will go to pieces on their final jaunt through the east next month. By that time, however, Chicago's lead is likely to be big enough to withstand a slump. They have won nine out of ten games during their present home stand against the East.

Clark Chased

The Cubs celebrated Manager Charley Grimm's 33rd birthday yesterday by knocking out Watson Clark, ace of the Brooklyn pitching staff, and burying the Dodgers under a 9 to 3 landslide with Sheriff Guy Bush holding Brooklyn to seven hits. Hack Wilson, Brooklyn outfielder who once was Chicago's idol, was benched after hitting into a double play with the bases loaded in the sixth inning.

Chicago hasn't anybody to beat but Brooklyn. The Pittsburgh threat vanished completely when the Pirates blew two games to the Phillies 11 to 3 and 6 to 5. The Quakers who have trimmed the Bucs seven straight and have whipped them in 14 out of 18 games this year, rubbed it in by winning the nightcap on a squeeze play in the tenth inning.

The Phils, now in fourth place, trail the Pirates by only a game and a half.

With shortstop Eddie Marshall getting four hits and driving in three runs, the Giants shaded the Cardinals, 6 to 5.

The home run leaders in the American League had a field day. Jimmy Foxx, making a desperate bid to crack Babe Ruth's record, hit no. 46 as the Athletics swamped the Browns, 15 to 5. Ruth hit his 36th passing Chuck Klein the runner-up to Foxx, as the Yankees nosed out Cleveland, 4 to 3. Lou Gehrig's 28th circuit clout won the game in the ninth after Earl Averill's 28th had tied the score in the eighth.

Lefty Gomez, the New York hurler, chalked up his 21st victory.

Firpo Marberry of the Senators, who turned in a one-hit game in his last start, subdued Detroit 8 to 5, Washington passing Cleveland and taking second place.

A homer by Benny Tate, former Chicago catcher helped Gordon Rhodes, ex-Yankee hurler, pitch the Red Sox to a 5 to 4 decision over the White Sox.

The Braves and Reds were idle.

FOREST MIDGETS WIN.

The Forest Midgets won a double bill by upsetting the Harleys 7 to 3, and 10 to 1 in a mushball game on Wednesday evening at Paul street field. The Forest Midgets have won 30 games and lost 11 this year. The Midgets would like to play any fast Midget team in New Castle. See Jacobson at 626 Forest street, or Joe Cooper at 634 Forest street.

West Pittsburg Files Protest

West Pittsburg through their manager J. Vessella, have filed a protest with the Twilight League commissioners against the victory of the Hillsville team at West Pittsburg recently.

The game is protested on a decision made by Umpire Bell who allowed a Hillsville man a fair hit on a bunted ball that hit home plate and bounced up and hit the batter and fell into fair territory. Umpire Bell ruled a fair ball, and Base Umpire Fruitt claimed the batter was out for being hit by his own bated ball. The commissioners will give a ruling on this play.

Philadelphia Girl Favorite To Win In Toronto Swim

TORONTO, Aug. 26.—Miss Margaret Ravior, of Philadelphia, 1931 winner, is favored to win the Canadian national exhibition ten-mile women's professional marathon to be contested in the waters of Lake Ontario here today.

The Philadelphia lass will have tougher opposition this year than in 1931 for Miss Gertrude Ederle, of New York, first woman to swim the English Channel back in 1926, will be one of her competitors.

It will mark the return to professional competition for Miss Ederle, who has spent most of her time since swimming the channel teaching people how to swim.

Other threats to Miss Ravior are Miss Ruth Tower Corsan, who finished second twice; Miss Evelyn Armstrong, of Detroit and Miss Lillian Copplestone, of New Zealand.

Thirty-six are expected to start.

Giuseppe Verdi was the greatest Italian composer of the nineteenth century.

It has been a long time since professional ball players in the large minors and in the majors have had to play on a dirt of a skinned diamond. Pacific Coast league tossers are having their first experience in years on such a field in Seattle where the Indians have been forced to finish up the present season on Civic field due to a fire having destroyed the 'stands' at the former park. Lack of time prevented sodding of the new diamond.

Robert Latera, manager of John Patrick Devlin, who answers the bell to the name of Johnny Devlin is hopeful of matching his pugilistic protege with Willie Davies, the Charleroi chap who has started down the taboggan. Latera believes that Devlin is sufficiently advanced in boxing to hold his own with Davies. He has deluged Canadian boxing promoters with letters extolling the powress of Devlin who hails from Portsmouth, Ohio.

Max Carey, manager of the Brooklyn Robins hopes to come down the National league stretch with a powerful hurling staff judging from his purchase of two right-handed pitchers. The hurlers who will wear a Brooklyn uniform are Fay Thomas from the Oakland Coast league club and Ed. Pipgras from the Jersey team of the International league. Thomas is back with a major league club after an unsuccessful try with the Giants in 1927 and a fruitless stay with the Yankees in 1928. He has been hurling good ball this year. Pipgras has been going good with Jersey City, the same club that gave the Robins First Baseman Bud Clancy a few weeks ago.

Down in Mexico they are shouting the praise of Luis Najera, a featherweight boxer who leaped recently from the amateurs to the ranks of a professional. Since turning pro' he has scored five consecutive knockouts and his grace in the ring is likened to that displayed by Jem Driscoll the Welshman who cavorted much to the chagrin of Abe Attel and others of former days. Tommy White, a veteran welterweight says he is lightning fast, graceful and has a good 'sock.' He believes that if he had been sent to Los Angeles Olympics he would have been the Olympic featherweight champion.

Carl Snyder of Petersburg, Ind., had a most unusual experience while angling in a slough near the White River recently. The day was hot and after Snyder had baited his line with a piece of bacon rind, he settled back in a doze. He was awakened by a violent tug on his line. Before he could collect himself the pole was jerked from his hands. Imagine his amazement, however, when he saw the pole travelling across a 40-acre field, instead of the water! Snyder ran and overtook the pole and discovered a large river rat had swallowed the bait and caused him all the trouble.

Action On I. R. T. Causes Some Flurry But Stocks Nearly Steady

PROFIT-TAKING IS PERSISTENT

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Receivership for the I. R. T. and the accompanying pressure on the N. Y. City Traction issues threw a pall over the stock market today.

I. R. T. common at one time lost nearly 50 per cent of its value but recovered part of its loss. Other traction securities met support and B. M. T. regained its early loss.

The rest of the marked backed and filled in a range of around a point under yesterday's closing prices. Some stimulation was provided by a 7-point run-up in the laggard Auburn but this failed to bring about resumption of the advance.

Profit-taking was persistent from the opening gong. Stocks dropped 1 to 3 points in the early dealings. Some recovery was made later but there was no follow-through.

American Telephone was relatively steady and held around yesterday's final price. U. S. Steel was fractionally lower. Case Threshing was steadied by firmness in wheat while International Harvester recovered some of the lost ground lost on its dividend reduction.

Copper stocks were steady with price changes unimportant, increase in lead prices was a supporting influence. Rails met further profit-taking and ruled about a point lower. Oils did little.

Commodity market were colorless. Profit taking was widespread and cotton and rubber were easier. Wheat and corn held well.

In opening the meeting Mr. Adams was optimistic on the business outlook for the remainder of the year. The committee then proceeded to make plans for the church, considering the reduced revenue. Certain events will be held at the church, every five weeks, it was decided. They propose to have each individual in the various departments purchase tickets for the number of activities planned. Sometime in October, it was announced the Men's Class will have a fish fry. Later in the month another Hallowe'en social will be held, as last year. This was one of the most successful events held here last year. The committee also voted to send a note of appreciation of services rendered, to Mrs. Paul Winter who is confined to her home with illness. The committee misses this active member of their organization. Another interesting event will be the sponsoring of a crucible contest by the church. That is old gold will be collected and sold as a means of obtaining revenue.

The play committee also has a few plans for the season which will bring in some funds.

The next meeting of the planning committee will be held at the home of Emery Neuman on Wiley Hill on September 19.

Report Farmer's Strike Continues To Spread Through Middle West

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

OMAMA, Neb. Aug. 26.—Although violence and bloodshed turned it into dangerous channels, the amazing farmer's strike continued to spread through the agricultural west today, with civil authorities threatening to break up the movement unless its advocates abandon highway blockades in favor of quiet persuasion.

The holiday, called by Iowa farmers as a means of forcing higher prices for poultry, dairy and farm products, puzzled political leaders by its rapid expansion into adjoining states. The movement, only two weeks old, was spreading like a prairie wildfire. It developed violence in some places and threats of violence in others.

The movement, though, split the ranks of farmers. In Iowa, where it was born, the farmers in two communities, Charter Oak and Boone, declined to join the holiday and organized militant bands of their own numbers to protect the marketing of their products.

Political leaders, adverse to discussing the movement publicly, said privately, it was akin to the bonus invasion of the nation's capital. They said it was not political in nature, but an economic revolt.

"This revolt is neither Republican nor Democrat," said one prominent Democratic leader. "It's an economic uprising. The citizens on the farms are disturbed. They are hounded into action by the depression. They don't quite know what to do, but are willing to try anything. It's like the bonus march. Those veterans had no chance at all of securing cash payment of the bonus. Many of them realized it but their economic condition compelled them to try action, when sitting at home had gotten them nothing. So it is with the farmers.

"The Republicans will get hit, if the movement becomes political but for only one reason—because they are the party in power in the nation."

The movement continued growing in Iowa. Hundreds of farmers picketed the highways leading into three great produce centers. The picketed cities were Sioux City, Council Bluffs and Spencer. The sheriff at Sioux City routed hundreds of pickets and arrested 88; the sheriff at Council Bluffs arrested 61, but released them all on bonds when a mob of 1,000 farmers stormed into the city, threatening to stage a jail delivery. At Spencer, 400 pickets tied up all highways.

Farmers of O'Brien county started picketing the town of Primghar during the night. At Lemars, in Plymouth county, the holiday was approved by a farmer's committee. At Denison, Crawford county, farmers were planning picket lines. At Blair, a holiday organization was being formed. In Douglas county the farmers will meet next Tuesday to organize a blockade of Waterloo. So it went throughout the state.

Hungarians Hear Stirring Addresses

Progress Of Hungarians Is Told By Educators And Spiritual Ministers Thursday

The Thursday afternoon program in the Emmanuel Baptist church, where the Hungarian Baptist Union is holding its twenty fifth annual convention was most interesting to the delegates inasmuch as Prof. Edwin L. Kautz, head of the Hungarian department of the International Baptist Seminary at East Orange, N. J., gave a report of the progress of the school the past few years, telling that the Hungarian student body had increased from 8 to 22 and the standard of the school was raised to that of a junior college.

He also spoke of the Young People's Assembly, which was the first of its kind to be held by the Hungarians in this country. This was held the week of August 15 at Watervliet, Mich., and took up a regular course of study in Bible, Life of Christ, Hungarian national and religous history and practical church service. The evening addresses were made by Dr. John H. Hestenes, director of Christian centers for the northern Baptist convention.

Prof. Kautz touched upon the personal spiritual life in his talk, also of the social problems, political issues and other vital matters, and challenged the young people to face these on the basis of the teaching and spirit of Christ.

The other afternoon speaker was Dr. T. C. Hanna, the grandson of Adoniran Judson, the hero of "The Splendor of God," who at the beginning of the last century, began the missionary movement in America. Dr. Hanna spoke of world wide missionary activities of the Baptist denomination.

This morning the women's branch of the convention was held in the church.

This evening Rev. William Dauda of Cleveland, Ohio, and Rev. Theodore Trsztyanski of Carteret, N. J., will be the speakers.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

Something like fifty years ago, the women of the Episcopal church built a quilt for sale in an effort to get funds for the church. Not that needing funds for a church was unusual then or now. Nor does this concern the need for money. It's about the quilt.

Even for those days when quilt making was one of the arts of every housewife, this quilt was considered to be a dinger. It was made of the prettiest silk patches the women could find. Some of the patches were carefully made designs with every known sort of fancy work included in them.

Recently Mrs. C. J. Kirk, who as a young girl had a part in the work of making the quilt suggested that she would like to see the quilt again if it was still in existance and it was found that Bert Cosel, son of Max Cosel, the man who won it, had the quilt, and that's how we got a look at it.

Apparently it has never been used and what a piece of work it is. Thousands of stitches and scores of pretty silk patches. As a matter of fact it would look better in a frame for it is more a work of art than something to cover a flock of cold shins.

Had an interesting group of youngsters in the plant yesterday. About sixty "4H" boys from Erie, Crawford, Mercer, Lawrence and Beaver Counties were in to inspect the News and if they had as much fun going through as we had of showing them, everybody is satisfied.

It takes a real boy to belong to the "4H" group. Not only physically, but mentally, morally and intellectually. It's another of the movements in recent years to interest the farm boy in the art of living and it has met a justifiable success.

The four H's stand for Head, Heart, Hand and Health, and to be a member the boy must have developed all four. It's a great outfit, one that is going to get bigger as the years go by, for this country is now in the period when the big city is not the attractive place it once was.

Small towns, villages, farms, these are the places that are being stressed as the place for boys and rightly so. Seems to me that a 100 acre farm is a lot better for a growing youngster than the littered alleys of a big city.

Four-H Club Boys End Camp Today

Will Return To Homes After Four Day Stay At Camp Phillips

After spending four days encamped at Camp John M. Phillips, near Rose Point, since Monday, close to 60 youths from six western Pennsylvania counties will return to their homes this afternoon.

The vacation at camp has been a most pleasant and profitable one, for in addition to many hours of organized play, they have been given valuable instruction along farm topics under the guidance of H. R. McCulloch of Lawrence county and his staff assistants, farm agents from the surrounding counties.

Thursday evening was parents' night at the camp and a special camp fire program was carried out under the direction of T. H. Patton, assistant county farm agent of Erie county.

Thursday afternoon the boys, 53 in number, visited local industries, the tour having been arranged through the New Castle Chamber of Commerce. They visited the Shenango plant of the American Sheet & Tin Plate company, New Castle News, Shenango Pottery and Orr Baking company.

One of Wednesday's features was a baseball game between a picked nine from the camp and the Dunbar team of Mars, in which the latter was vanquished by a score of 22-12.

Immediately following dinner today, camp was broken and the boys set out for their respective homes.

Frenchmen Wear Colored Felts Of Striking Hues

By ALICE LANGELIER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Aug. 26.—Oh, Clarence, does my chapeau match my necktie? This is what every chic man is saying these days of bright colors of which the women seem to have no monopoly.

For fashionable men are wearing colored felts as well. Head covering which would hardly be recognized as "sailors" on the other side of the herring pond have made their appearance on the smart boulevards and at all the fashionable French resorts. They are startling in shade, mauve, wine-red, Nile-green, violet-blue and purple heliotrope being among the most popular tints.

Even straws come in a lovely lavendar shade which grandmother would like and match the tie, shirt and often socks as well.

Shantung silk shirts, beige-colored Oxford bags and hats dyed to that delicate shade which is the mark of well-baked pastry, be it French or any other nationality, make another new color combination.

Leinen Puech, one of Paris' most fashionable outfitters, is showing a crepe de chine tie of Bordeaux-red, with chapeau and socks to match, the shirt coming in a paler tone. This promises to be one of the most popular tones for winter.

Try This Scheme On Your Bootlegger

(International News Service)

LONDON, Aug. 26.—During a visit to this city Gabriel Wells, American book dealer and collector, revealed how he always managed to escape serving on an American jury.

"If I am summoned to serve on a jury, and I want exemption for business reasons," he declared, "I just ring up a certain bootlegge.

"The bootlegger rings up the judicial official concerned and says, 'Just wash that out!' It is promptly washed and I do not have to serve."

Junk Dealer Is Sorry He Bought U. S. Battleship

(International News Service)

DENVER, Aug. 26—A. H. Radetsky, Denver junk dealer, is being called "Admiral Radetsky" because at the bottom of the harbor of Santo Domingo, capital of the Dominican republic lies a battle ship which is entirely his property. The ship moreover, cost Uncle Sam $12,000,000 to build.

In 1914 an explosion sent the U. S. S. Memphis to the bottom of the harbor with 33 sailors aboard. Efforts to move it proved futile.

Eight years later Radetsky bought the sunken ship for a few thousand dollars with the expectation of junking it.

Radetsky went to Santo Domingo and removed the copper and brass from the ship. He intended to remove the iron and steel, and complete the junking of the ship. About that time, however, the price of metals nosedived.

Dominican authorities have written Radetsky urging him to remove the ship from the harbor. Residents of the city, they declare, believe the presence of the sunken hulk is an omen of ill fortune.

"I guess they'll just have to leave it there until I get ready to dismantle it," Radetsky declared. "If they want to take it out they're certainly welcome to the job. Personally I wish I had never set eyes on the ship. Its too big a responsibility."

CANDIDATE NEEDS $250

Scottish Dungeons Shock Tourists

(International News Service)

CARLISLE, Scotland, Aug. 26—A tragic relic of the days of border warfare still moves to tears tourists who visit the dungeons of famous Carlisle Castle here.

It is the "licking stone," half eroded away by the parched tongues of thirsty prisoners. When prisoners of war were placed in the dank dungeons of Carlisle Castle they were denied food and water. For some reason the "licking stone" was always wet, and the prisoners would try to lick some of the moisture from it.

The imprints of the prisoners' fingers as they clawed at the thick walls also bear dreadful testimony to the inhumanity of those dark days.

Life is a long lesson in humility. —Barrie.
